I read on a keylogger that after I stole money from a victim that he drank himself to sleep after I stole from him.

This taught me a lesson...

I'm entirely against stealing/hacking. Forever. I'll never use hacking tools again.

I'm with god now and I hope I am forgiven.

With that said, I must admit, using them was fun as a teenager. I was 16 when I joined this site.

May God bless you on your path toward redemption. All that seek His guidance are blessed with His whatever-the-fuck.

There's no such thing as a victim-less crime, except kicking Hitler in the balls.

That's something a lot of people who do BH stuff tend to forget or just don't care about, there is someone on the other side who probably needs that money.

Glad you decided it's time to stop ?

Then again, there are those rats online that steal millions from innocent elderly people and the gullible. I used to be in the scene too, always used to use funny functions but never used it in a way to steal money.

Yeah, always good to remember that another being is on the other side of scams
