Thread: Blacklist option in chat

thatBaconGuy.cpp - December 18, 2021, 9:19 am

Title says it all. Whoever is blacklisted in chat is basically ignored. They can't read your messages nor send you any. This is necessary because there are bullies in chat. Please implement, thanks.

You're the bully in chat. Constantly spamming and trolling other members, on top of the harassment. You should tread carefully considering you're making a pointless suggestion to aid in a problem that you're the cause of. Dumbass

I agree with thatBaconGuy.cpp and I am going to implement a ban of his account from Convo so we don't have to deal with him. He's absolutely right. We need a better way to ignore guys like him. I'll see what I can do.

What a problem solver of an idea

Is this really what the internet, and such forums have come too?

Let's jump back 5 years when it was okay to be as toxic as you wanted

I'll agree to disagree with you.

The technical definition for a troll is this:

"Someone who leaves an intentionally annoying or offensive message on the internet, in order to upset someone or to get attention or cause trouble."

If I recall correctly, I have had two conflicts in the chat in which the first instance occurred when I was asking for help with my linux problem. Instead I get called a troll for it. It's a problem that I had to solve on my own because apparently most people thought I was trolling. If I was truly trolling, I wouldn't be asking for help or solve my problem but that's not the case.

As for the second incident, it has been resolved and offered the perceived offender some chess tips as a token of my appreciation.

I think this falls in the violation of HackForums in one or both of the rules

I don't appreciate your slander and have told you to leave me alone before thus I have to put you on ignore. Goodbye.

Completing deals without contracts on HF can result in your account being warned/closed. I would be careful.

Are you serious right now? If you were truly wanting help with a real technical problem you were having you would've actually shared whatever error message it was that you were receiving instead of saying "there's a kernel already on my laptop" and THEN, after I gave you some steps to follow to begin troubleshooting the problem, you respond with this nonsensical "I tried all of that already, it's a problem with the kernel" crap.

I find it even more telling that you still are unable to share what exactly your problem was or that error message that you keep claiming to have shared during our conversation (funny how nobody else who was there can recall having seen you share any sort of error message either). I'm just glad we won't have to deal with any more of your BS in convo, thank you Omni.

Imagine being here for less than 3 months, 51 posts and already get into so much conflicts with people. Yeah, maaaaaaaybe you might be the issue here mate, and not others.

Add Baconator to your ignore list. Obvious mental defects.
