VOUCHES:

(Dec 23, 2021 09:58 PM)Rahul007rhp Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Big VOUCH for OP !
I have received a working license from OP with clear instructions how to activate it.
License key is working on the latest product of MB.

I can confirm the key is working in official install of MB & OP is not giving any cracked version.

Are these the commercial lifetime licenses scam that is commonly sold and then changed and resold after some time to continue the cycle. Malware Bytes no longer sells lifetime licenses

"Malware Bytes no longer sells lifetime licenses."

This is confirmed....and that's exactly my question....

Malwarebytes to not directly advertise lifetime licences (they did previously). These licences are obtained from a private seller.

(Dec 28, 2021 03:37 PM)Anonymouswriter Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Active after the Christmas break, still plenty In stock!

No they are not... each licence is private to that specific user. Once the licence is activated only the admin of that device can deactivate the licence.

(Jan 17, 2022 11:09 PM)xatt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) These are cracked license keys obtained by running OB. A generator creates a large number of potential working lifetime keys and the program runs through them all to see which ones work (or has a device space remaining). You then have to activate it fairly soon after to avoid getting the "device limit" error.

Sales trashing- these are not cracked licences. Once the licence is redeemed the user has access to the latest version of Malwarebytes for a lifetime duration. As seen In the vouches section too.

No dip. When did I say you don't get access to the latest version? MWB has discontinued lifetime keys since 2014. Only way to get them know is to test a whole ton of old ones with proxies and see which ones still work/have a device space remaining. It's also the reason why once you activate you won't have access to the login account to edit information :)
