Replied to your PM.

This isn't a blackhat method - in fact the screenshot is from my own personal account. The method is whitehat and 100% legitimate. I just contacted the mod and hope to have that thread reopened.

Host - December 26, 2021, 2:51 pm

Also how long does these credits last for?

FatherTime - December 26, 2021, 3:51 pm

No expiry date but the credits are attached to the account. However you could resell the account.

I replied to your deal dispute thread. The facts are there so let's keep the conversation on that thread.

New vouch copy available - 50% discount in exchange for your review. First come first serve, get your copy at $150 off!

If your friends with this scammer just say that. This method does not work and I have provided proof of that with this link

Are you going to remove MY review and allow this seller to scam other users or you going to do your job and prevent it?

Never understand this, but absolutely agree with you.

Probably I'll get warning again, but it doesn't make any sense to me that you put all valid proof that person is scamming, and administrators are stick with kind of stupid rules and remove all proofs of scamming and let that person to continue with scam.

Seen that hundred of times and saw people losing thousands of dollars but yeah, rules are rules. If someone with good reputation is trying to stop scam admins should forget about those rules and stop scammers straight away, I know that you make deal on your own risk but cmon guys, sometimes you have to think out of the box.

Thank you and sorry for spamming but have to agree with Host as someone has to do something about scammers as here is same group of scammers doing same scams over and over, as they know that they can abuse rules, and that's exactly what they do.

Staff enforce rules as outlined in the Help Docs. You get one review post and repeated attempts to discourage sales after that are just harassment. It's really not hard to understand and you shouldn't take it personally because it isn't.

Yeah the rules are stupid, you guys are quick to give warnings but don't live by a actual code. I just provided proof on this method and this thread is still open. People that is interested in this service is inboxing me about this method and I am being straight up. Their probably messaging me cause they're thinking "hmmm if his thread is still open he must didn't do anything wrong plus staff backing him but first let me see what host is talking about"

Let's all say it on 3..... We are here to make the owner of HF rich while HF name gets torn down by scammers and he does nothing to make the market safe from scumbags but of course i'll take my warning atleast I know I saved a few kids from losing $150-$300.

This sales thread has been derailed for no good reason by a user that can't seem to read. I'll close this thread down now, no point in arguing against blank arguments.

Reserve your copy for $150 - hit me up through convos or PMs.
