Thread: What is some good advice for creating a clothing brand?

Sunniebeta - January 16, 2022, 7:23 pm

I've always dreamed of starting my own clothing brand, sewing everything, supporting my girlfriend and daughter, just lots of aspirations! If anyone here owns a clothing brand/line and would love to give me some tips, I'd appreciate it! Feel free to dm me under any circumstances! Love you all!

You should invest in high quality screen printing and embroidery machines. Then just use 99designs to get some cool unique designs for cheap.

I plan on starting one as well, I don't have any tips since I haven't done enough research as of late.

Good luck on your journey.

Thank you. I'm still trying to think of a brand name. Thing is, is there a way to search up if a name is trademarked or used or something of that sort?

That market is highly saturated IMHO. I'd not put my money in this if I was you.

I have multiple side hustles which would cover the expenses for my clothing brand, so it's not that big of an issue! I appreciate the concern!

Invest into plastisol heat transfers and a heat press machine. Best bang for your buck with quality and availability to make colorful designs as opposed to keeping everything black and white.

I've been talking to manufacturers recently, heat press, etc isn't necessary for me right now.
