You need to learn a bit to understand what this is.

politecat - November 4, 2022, 6:54 am

I don't understand either. You are intercepting a connection on your LOCAL machine only. What's the point? How are you gonna push payload to real visitor?

im intercepting a connection on my local machine "only" but im also adding a payload if there was no vulnerability the payload wouldn't execute, understand? but you right about something, the impact of the bug is close to none you would have to do this on the machine you trying to hack is a bug in pastebin none the less just not a very impactfull and important one.

That's not a zero day. You can literally do that to any website to cause an "alert" to pop up. There was no exploit there what so ever. The fact people are actually intrigued by this baffles me lmao

I dont know what the f you "crew" is smoking but it has gotten rotten

Try to do what i did with any site of your choose the payload is eing send to the website just because you pop an alert box with you javascript console it doesnt tell there is a bug but doing it how I did in the video it shows there is a bug so get you facts straight before coming here to flame me... you the reason this forum doesnt go better you dont hack, dont know your stuff and are a "lounge crew" thats whats this about so please get out of my thread and stfu before replying
