Thread: revenge on noisy upstairs neighbours

hayesh - February 4, 2022, 11:56 am

Do you guys have any tips on how to get revenge on a noisy neighbor who lives above you. These guys have a bunch of kids that run, stomp and jump up and down and even after i approached them about it they do nothing danieal356 - February 4, 2022, 11:57 am haha this sounds like a scene from some movie

Lol, when you were little, you were only sitting and laying? Get real. I have neighbors with little kid as well and I don't complain. Just listen music and problem solved lol.

For the next month, you order pizzas and escorts to their flat, to arrive at the same time!

Bruh, we all gotta have fun some time, I once did this to myself and it ended up with pizza and a escort in my room, I was definitely not thinking about the neighbors anymore

Hilfiger - February 4, 2022, 12:11 pm

Funny to me because I have the opposite problem. I have kids and live above these people. After 8 my place is silent. Well they smash on the walls at 3 am. Dudes a total asshat. Ignorant af. Liek I live above you I shouldn't hear you lmfao.

Move. Why would you plot to take revenge on children who are simply playing? That's insane.

Don't know your own personal living situation but PHub on random playlist at full volume until they STFU? Can guarantee the parents will want to come to some sort of arrangement then.

Drastic I know but having lived under similar circumstances I know what I've been driven to in the past

Headspace - February 4, 2022, 7:22 pm

They're going to listen to my playlist whether they want to or not. ?

Who owns the building you live in? I would be finding the landlord and having some words with them about that.

Depends how Petty you are.

My good friend had a neighbor like that. They also had dogs, so he would play a very high pitched sound late a night around like midnight and get the dogs barking. Then kept reporting them to management for all the noise in the middle of the night.

Took about 4 complaints before they were forced to move.

Attach a subwoofer to their master bedroom location and drop some fat beats.

Kill the family pet.

Is only way.

Call CPS and say you hear them getting beat

Eran - February 5, 2022, 5:01 am

Chances are that there is little they can do about the situation themselves.

hackerm0m - February 5, 2022, 11:54 am

You're gonna have to move out. I suppose. They're not gonna be able to get their kids to sit in one spot. Chances are the parents are trying to stop it. When I have my daughters siblings over, I try my best to quiet them. Doesn't work— they're kids and playing. This is why they try to put people with children on the first floor.

I used to have a upstairs person where their kid jumped around even all night long, I was more concerned for the welfare of the child than anything. They ended up evicted as they trashed the place and had domestic disputes frequently.

the_bane - February 5, 2022, 11:36 pm

OP give us an update on the situation please

Bro honestly it really hard as a parent to have control over everything the kids do around, at time the parents might even be tired to put the house in order and kids are very energetic most time, so you just have to bear with them or make them understand again how this is affecting you. If it was adult and doing all sort I can tell you square it out with them.
