When I see this post I cant help but think he knew he was going to get killed.

Did he just want to pass on some information, or did he mean to sent a secret message?

I didn't know he was killed, may his soul rest in peace.

This was good from him starting to share some experience and knowledge when he though his time was close

Read the first letter of each line and you will see that it doesn't make sense.

probably a secret message embedded in it somewhere
