Newer to Twitch end of monetization, but you actually have to stream for it all to look legit right? You can't just stack 500 subs and get paid out?

If you can, I'm 100% interested in buying 100+ as well as an account. If not, I'm still interested if you have any suggestions around easy ways to look stream active

Yes you must stream and slowly drip feed

I have purchased from TopStreamer already multiple times since he has posted some of his services. I am really impressed with what you have so far, and look forward to you getting your L33T upgrade soon. :)

Will any of these subs chargeback, as I know there is only chargeback protection for bits.

I'd be lying if I said I can guarantee delivery. Sometimes twitch refuses the delivery of funds if for example someone with no previous history sends themselves $5,000

STOPANDRUN7 - May 1, 2022, 9:44 pm

oi have a massvive Dota 2 inventory that im am thinking about starting to sale some of it off, early beta acess Dota Account with 1 off rarierty items that are 1 of a kind items with speical tags due to ingame drop due to events , so litertally 1 of a kind esp for the nostaglitc ones, but they show 0$ in the community Market Average Asking Price Because Of The 1 of a Kind Rarity , so i dont inculde the 1 of a kind raritey items in the invetory only the items that have a average listed saleing price in steam community store, yesterday When I checked It Via CSGO Skin Site G2 The Account Inventory Listed Average Was 1,300$ USD !!!! i was sorta shocked how cheap its value is now compared to one point in time when dota 2 was at its high point m inventory was estimated around 5k several diffrent occasions, but prices go up and down as supply and demand go up and down so i undersstand. When I Was Playing Alot Collecting The Inventory The the cheapest items sold in the marketplace wer just common skin peices for different heros dragon knight sword a alchemist body but common least rare ones sold for .18-.20 USD$ that was the established low as you go price for not rare items, average common item sale price now is .01 .02

so i get it , but imaybe we could work something out useing csgo skins sites maybe where we both come out making good il check into it and let you know if your intrestd before i check into swaping to csgo items or useing csgo skin gambling/tradeing websites to sale my massive Dota 2 collection il glady send you the inventory information and valu estimation and how its obtained like i said maybe we both can profit in the situation
