

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Thread Design - IT Certifications Services

? THEINsPIREDONE - February 14, 2022, 12:33 pm

Hello everyone! It's been almost 2 years since I last posted any examples of my work here, so here's the latest thread design I've created for an IT Certifications Service!

-

AzureGod - February 14, 2022, 12:36 pm

10/10 I never expected it to come out so professionally

Cyam - February 15, 2022, 9:10 am

Hey man, glad to see you back. You've always been my source of inspiration back in the day. I still think you're one of the most capable designers on HF market.

Now onto your thread design. Colors are great, orange and blue always work perfectly together and I have nothing further to say about that.

I think the only problem (which I think is just my personal opinion) is that design is way too busy. There is a lot of text and no "breathing" place on the design. Also, first row in "additional badges" isn't aligned properly although it contains same amount of text and the same badge icon.

And last thing - I think font is way too basic for my taste. I usually go for a more "playful" font like Poppins, Montserrat, Proxima Nova or something like that. In my recent experience, I feel like Poppins is the overall best choice for any thread design except when you're specifically in need of Serif fonts. I tried playing around with monospace or display fonts (mind you, I only use Google fonts since they're all available in Figma) but so far had no luck in finding a font that I personally love.

Last question, off topic, do you do your threads in Photoshop or do you use an UI/UX tool (Figma, XD, Sketch...)?

? THEINsPIREDONE - February 15, 2022, 12:09 pm

Thanks for your thoughts!

Yes, I've completely migrated my workflow to Figma & Sketch!

DizzyFlash - March 18, 2022, 3:01 pm

Clean design nice outcome!