I see a clear as day solution, which Dyne has mentioned above. Move out!

There's so much more I could say. All in all it will end with find a new place. If it's his home, you are a GUEST. If I owned a home for say 30 years and some punk moves in and takes care of things for a year that doesn't mean he can whoop my ass cause of what I choose to do after retirement (get shitfaced daily). Too factors to play apart of this situation, lol and we don't have a sufficient amount of detail.

Not much to say here. Move out while something dumb hasn't happened.

Take your girlfriend, and move out. Avoid any altercations with the father as it could land in you trouble.

This is the best option, how would you feel your daughter's bf banging her in your house? This is for OP [mention=5037217] is quite right, move out.

Get anger management. You've got a problem if you're going around beating old men because they "step on your nerves."

Tbh, I want to kick the shit out of you myself. Maybe we both need anger management.

Seems like a lot of bitching for Someone living with their girlfriends parents. You put yourself in that situation asshole

I see that some of you have misunderstood me a little. since I have nothing to resent you as someone wrote that I did not describe the background of this story in sufficient detail. so you will understand better if I tell you that it is true that I live in a foreign house but I feel more like I live with a girl in her house and we take care of him like for a small child. My girlfriend and I have been together for 8 years and we have been living together for all this time. All this time she has been living alone with him and his parents who were very ill and took care of them, etc. but his parents were not interested in him because he was addicted to alcohol and drunk every day. i came to make it easier for her because she is alone for everything on the farm. Only sometimes, when he is very drunk, does the old man make problems that have a very psychological effect on her and starts fight. And i forget to sey she already has such problems with her psyche because of this jerk.and when they quarrel usually I don't intervene,but the guy himself started a conflict with me because I didn't do certain things when he want and he was already in such a bad mood, annoyed because his girlfriend took a key from the vineyard where he has stored wine. he also got over her, so I'm interested in what you would do at that moment if the father got over his own daughter (your girlfriend).

You put yourself in that situation asshole you would tolerate your girlfriend's father harassing her mentally and physically. You would wash his clothes every day and clean up after him a ton of garbage that you produce and give him to eat. but he himself would not contribute to the household anything, nothing, nothing but his shit and his negative energy, and in life he did nothing, everything he did was his parents, not him. You cant even imagine how angry I am just when I think about himm when writeing this. i don't want my kids to grow up and watch this pile of manure. you do for him everything he imagines and he tells you for work at the last minute. in the end, you are worth nothing at the end.

I tell you the same like i wrote to financeman901 in last reply. I wantnt to know what you do in that situation. I bet you do. But that would be yours last thing you do. only in such a situation there would be no such need because your own daughter would,beat you up. Cuz you would be nothing else like grumpy drunk old fucker. I say that cuz you feel little too strong then you are. Maybe you are maybe you not but you need to know if you fuck with me you need to be really crazy motherfucker.

No offense just talking about that specific situation.

I can tell you that he was someday sucha motherfucer and he fight around alot he is famous there around with his brothers but this is past. Like him.
