I own LTC, I use LTC, but i don't have LTC for investment purposes. Given the history of LTC, i don't think it's going anywhere; still has silver-like consensus. I don't think it's a 'bad' investment, but i do think for risk vs reward, you should just stick with BTC or ETH.

If you want to get into long term, riskier plays with your $500, i would highly recommend looking into layer2 solutions.

Pinned thread on those^

Layer 2s is where I'm personally invested in outside of ETH (I hold practically no BTC tbh -I am an Etheriest for life). Personally, i am invested into Cartesi and Loopring... those are my hold on for dear lifers. Giving it years to pick up mass adoption.

Edit: Regarding OP, you don't have to go all in on anything. Diversification is smart. Open up the horizon.

100x then BTC is the only play.

I would do a $300 BTC and $100 ETH and $100 LTC buy with that.

xVulnerable - February 23, 2022, 10:36 am

Haven't you heard the old saying? Buy BTC, Hold and STFU.

for btc specifically to 100x, the marketcap would be nearly 100 trillion. that is like 10x the marketcap of gold. I dont know anything that is near a $100 trillion marketcap.

Its possible but the money needed would be insane. Or hyper-inflation would need to kick in.

way easier 100x gambles imo

BCH and BSV would be my choices personally for a 100x. Both are PoW directly competing for Bitcoin Hash and as stated in the Bitcoin whitepaper, the longest chain is Bitcoin so there is still like a less than 1% chance BCH or BSV overtakes BTC chain and technically becomes Bitcoin. At least according to the Bitcoin whitepaper as I understand it.

Anyways, the great thing about Bitcoin and crypto, is it goes so fast that we will all see it play out in our lifetime. I like Bitcoin more than anything. So if it goes 100x I'll be happy.

Its possible but the money needed would be insane. Or hyper-inflation would need to kick in. And yet it will happen. btw, 100x from today price is about $70T. That's very realistic within 5 years. Doubt it all you want, it's gonna happen just as surely as Bitcoin hit $10k and will hit $100k and will hit $1m.

You want a guaranteed 100x return within a reasonable length of investment time? Then you buy Bitcoin.

eSp0rt - February 23, 2022, 2:35 pm

I will go for 300$ btc and 200$ ETH I don't take risks. Im here for long term investment so im not in rush to make profit

Take A Risk - February 23, 2022, 2:49 pm

Long term plays BTC and ETH are the safest

GruntStyl - February 23, 2022, 3:31 pm

Long term your safest bets are going to be BTC and ETH. I can't see either of them going anywhere. They dominate to Crypto market. There's a reason those are always the first two that get talked about when Crypto is brought up.

shreder - February 23, 2022, 3:38 pm

I mean it's pretty clear the consensus is ETH & BTC.

jmark7 - February 23, 2022, 8:44 pm

wait for some time, if Russia attacks Ukraine, rates will fall more.
