Thread: Python Keylogger \(Brand New\)

MiguelSanchez - February 27, 2022, 7:32 am

I just saw someone on here post that python was a good language for keyloggers, I use python a lot and I was pretty skeptical.

So I quickly whacked this together and I'm obviously convinced it's possible, still not sure it's the best choice of language.

It's not done, but it is working.

It just doesn't send the data anywhere, it's up to you to write it out or have it upload the data to a server, at the moment it simply stores it in the variable buffer.

I think there will be problems with international keyboard mappings, whatever it uses by default seems different to mine, so hopefully it's okay out the box for US keyboard, there's a little more work to do but it's 90% there.

HF firewall stopped me posting it,
<https://trogramming.com/blog/2022/02/27/python-key-hooks-windows/> so I've placed it on my wordpress.

(edit: I just renamed the link, I don't want references to keylogging on my site until after adsense gets approved.)
