Thread: Russell Brand on Crypto Regulation

Brand nails it again. The guy is awake. Wait till more people wake up. I don't care what regulation the government thinks it will do, long-term technology and freedom will win over controls by the Elite.

We've seen some tremendous breakthrough developments in recent years, and then there is the government trying to get involved for their own benefit.

No matter what they do, they can't stop what's coming. They can try and try again, but in the end, crypto is going to win.

Those wallstreet thugs have been spouting "BTC IS GOING TO DIE THIS YEAR" for many years have now realised people are not buying their bullshit and fuck their protection and regulations. Keep buying crypto, always hold, these regulations won't do shit, people will always find ways to getting past them. Honestly, the more regulations and "bans" they put in place, the more people will want to get crypto, because crypto is essentially our way of severing the link between us the people with the zionist owned banks, wallstreet mafia and governments. More people are realising this reality, I am optimistic but just remember those fuckers have the influence to change policies of nations and the power to shift markets. But like the guy above me said crypto is going to win in the end, their only choice in the end will be to either shut the internet down or accept the loss

I saw a badger on a golf course Sunday out in the middle of the desert. It didn't give a fuck about coyotes or golfers or whatever. It was super chill. How come there aren't any professional sports teams named "Badgers". Seems a good name.

They have no choice, either join or be left behind.
in the end crypto will win 100%

Did he just rap to me in words I love hearing? LOL that first minute was INTENSE.. felt like I was in a nice flow listening to him lol

But yes I am literally all in on crypto.. I have "savings" in my bank that I am using that year... Anything else is stored in crypto LONG term..
