Thread: snapchat photo posting question

ReturningRaccoon - March 12, 2022, 8:59 pm

I have a question. So how can I post pictures to snapchat, from my computer using something like bluestacks, so it looks as if it's a fresh photo taken right then. There used to be a website for a download for something like this called casper.io but it isn't around anymore. I would very much appreciate this.

There's free way , called Chickencam , or check here on forum , few people selling paid apps , just put "live snap" in search ?

It works lovely, but I feel like it's so well known now that Snapchat are device banning users.

They don't even device ban people who use tweaks, worst case scenario it's just a normal temporary ban, that is if the tweak is detected. Also, I would like to point out that OP is using Bluestacks, and according to Snapchat's tos, emulators are banned. They just don't care that much.

Please explain to me why i have had to buy 4 iPhones In 3 weeks (not just me but others I know too) when the only common denominator is OVF ;(

I already know the answer though: I don't e-whore.

You guys post shit on your stories and wonder why you get device banned... you know people get device banned even for simply posting images of weed on their stories nowadays, right? OVF has nothing to do with it.

Actually my friend, after the first device ban I never posted another story. Hence why I am so bemused. Despite what most users here are like I am actually only using logic, the common denominator every time is same model & same third party app....
