I like 'profit pad', 'passion profits' sounds a bit hashtag-yolo, instgram-y, and 'apex profits' sounds a bit pyramid-scheme-y.

To me anyway.

blackrose_x0x0 - March 16, 2022, 9:28 am

I went with Apex Profits since it seemed to grab my attention right away and it has a modernness too it.

Prettykitty - March 16, 2022, 10:18 am

Apex Profits has a good ring to it, most memorable out of all of them. It makes sense too.

BrandonBoyd - March 16, 2022, 6:46 pm

Prettykitty - March 17, 2022, 10:45 am

Profit pad just rolls off the tongue easily.

Also, PP as acronym is actually funny. Great for PR.

Prettykitty - March 18, 2022, 10:40 am

3rd entry, going to still root for apex profits :) I like the game apex so this makes it even better.

Artisan - March 19, 2022, 12:22 pm

I like the name Unsaturated the most. Its the most catchy of them all.

Prettykitty - March 19, 2022, 12:45 pm

4th entry, just a lucky one to boost my chances before this ends :) Hope you get a good business name.

Grim - March 19, 2022, 12:48 pm

voted thanks! looks pretty nice

I-I - March 19, 2022, 5:14 pm

I picked Passion Profits as I think it sounds the best. The only other one I like is "Apex Profits" but it just reminds me of the game and also doesn't have the same starting letters for each word.

Good luck with your Business [^^]_/_

Thoth - March 19, 2022, 7:23 pm

My reason for voting for Unsaturated was simple. As a Business minor in College, we learned a lot about social engineering and trigger words/marketing strategies that "Catches the consumers eye./Draws in your target audience." Single words are, in most cases, much more appealing to the eye than longer multi-word business names. If used wisely, a great single worded title can practically 'make' a company. This was just one of the strategies I learned during my first year at college. Good luck with your poll man, hope this entry can be of some use! Have a great one!
