Thread: Automatic Social Media username scrape to Full Email conversion programme

Hi All -

I've developed a programme that will automatically take in a social media username list, and attempt to generate the full email assigned to that username; from this list using various methods. It's around 20% effective in converting a username into a 95% positive full email match. The rest of the 80%, around 60% of that the programme will give you more information to manually "guess" the full email, with the remaining 20% being complete dead ends.

These emails can then be used for combo lists etc

Would this be of interest to anyone?
