

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: The new Batman movie

SIM-4378207 - March 19, 2022, 5:59 am

What do you think about the new Batman movie?

Personally for me it lacked action. Robert Pattinson played his role good, IMO he is a good Batman but the movie itself lacked action.

Looks like The Dark Knight will keep being the best Batman movie ever made for me.

SIM-2501407 - March 19, 2022, 6:39 am

The Dark Knight and the 1989 Batman will always be the best.

There was two plots happening and definitely felt dragged out at some points.

The ending was awesome but i wish they expanded on it.

Somewhat of a spoiler.

Spoiler (Click to View)

I wish they showed his followers earlier on. They could have shown real havoc throughout the city. Would've been more interesting to see his support grow and take action before the final scene.

The final scene had action but was uneventful after sitting there for so many hours.

Also wasn't a fan of this 'emo' Batman. Imho Batman should be a business man as well. When it comes to his combat skills, i think they said Alfred taught him? Like wtf?

Not saying it needed to have a whole intro like that one Batman where is learning from assassins but don't tell me Alfred taught him.

Overall like a 6.5/10

hotwheels52 - March 19, 2022, 11:36 am

I've heard very good things so far and can't wait to watch it.

PATRONUS - March 19, 2022, 11:43 am

I really liked the movie, one of my favorite Batman movies so far and especially liked high-quality performances.

Grim - March 19, 2022, 3:19 pm

Honestly it was above my expectations. Robert Pattinson was much better then i thought he would be. The plot was a little slow at some points as others have said but other then that i really liked it.

Omniscient - March 21, 2022, 12:03 pm

Less action is good imho. Haven't watched it yet. But I refuse to watch anything that's Marvel anymore. But DC is iffy. For instance their attempt to have Marvel-like action movies AKA Justice League and the Aquaman movie were imho fails when it came to story.

Dark Knight wins because of Heath Ledger's Joker and nothing else. He should win best character for the century.

Handsome - March 21, 2022, 12:06 pm

(Mar 19, 2022 06:39 AM)Educational Purposes Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The Dark Knight and the 1989 Batman will always be the best.

There was two plots happening and definitely felt dragged out at some points.

The ending was awesome but i wish they expanded on it.

Somewhat of a spoiler.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

I wish they showed his followers earlier on. They could have shown real havoc throughout the city. Would've been more interesting to see his support grow and take action before the final scene.

The final scene had action but was uneventful after sitting there for so many hours.

Also wasn't a fan of this 'emo' Batman. Imho Batman should be a business man as well. When it comes to his combat skills, i think they said Alfred taught him? Like wtf?

Not saying it needed to have a whole intro like that one Batman where is learning from assassins but don't tell me Alfred taught him.

Overall like a 6.5/10

There's always the chance he learns from the league later. Alfred was SAS no?

ailo - March 23, 2022, 8:24 am

I hope it's as good as the new jocker movie.

EditedProfile - March 23, 2022, 4:42 pm

I thought it was awesome.

For the action, I thought there was a good amount for the type of story they were telling. It made the few action scenes way more intense too.

That Batmobile chase though.... insane camera work.

There was one scene I did not like...

Spoiler \(Click to View\) I thought the Joker scene was wack... didn't feel like it added anything to the story.

It's the same thing in the Joker movie, they gave the kid Bruce Wayne a scene with the Joker, because you know... he's BATMAN!

To be fair, they said there was a cut scene where Batman goes to prison and cross-examines a pre-clown Joker... this would of at least gave it some validity.

A10247 - March 23, 2022, 5:02 pm

I'm gonna go see it. I hope it's good.

I really don't think this movie is necessary though. I'd rather see them do something new or bring back the dark knight. :(

rodaxe - March 27, 2022, 5:02 am

Gonna see it in a couple of days. Hope its good but I doubt it will beat Christian Bale haha

AdobeHub - March 30, 2022, 5:20 pm

Was good copy of comics but anyway really strange... Not that good as I thought would be.