Thread: What chair do you use at your desk?

I--I - March 19, 2022, 10:01 pm

What chair do you currently use and how do you like it? I used to use a bad office chair for years but it was "my chair" so I loved it. Once it started breaking I got a new one and it's great, I like it better than racing seat bucket chairs.

This is my current chair:

SparkySa - March 20, 2022, 12:28 am

Im actually rocking one of the bucket gaming chairs and it works pretty well. Being able to lean all the way flat and put something on is addicting.

heres mine:

I'm just not a fan, they look nice sure, but compared to the chair I have now they don't offer the same support. I have a bad back from laying pavers.

I agree, thats why I just use it to lay down half the time lol. I've heard the Herman Miller Aeron is amazing for back support.

I'm at my desk all day and all night until my body literally shuts down, i need a great chair.

This is what I've had since 2020, so happy with it!

It's the Secretlab TITAN 2020 Series and I paid about £400.

Reallllly happy with this investment, so much so my brother bought one recently.

My next investment will prob be standing table

630 - March 20, 2022, 5:42 am

I have 4-5 year old DX Racer king series right now. I really want to switch into some sort of ergonomic chair but I haven't done the research and don't want to drop $500 on a chair right now.

?OMEGA? - March 20, 2022, 5:43 am

I'm running this $50 chair its the best ive had its the 3rd i own now they only last about a year or something then they need to be replaced.

But you sit 1000x better than in any high class office chair i've owned or gaming chairs.

I have a very similar chair to yours, full mesh, adjustable and with lumbar support. These chairs are superior to any gaming chair in the market. Those gaming chairs are terrible for your back and nowhere near as comfortable and tend to lack many features and build quality.

Yup i got $500-1000 office chairs through the time and i always go back to this $50 shit chair its way fucking better.

I use a chair like [--]'s one.

hotwheels52 - March 20, 2022, 1:01 pm

I currently use an S-RACER, but am looking to upgrade to a Herman Miller Embody or Aeron.

IKEA Markus is da sheit, doesn't break the bank nor has it broke my back yet...and it also hasn't scammed me like Marcus in all Borderlands games :D

Herbert - March 20, 2022, 6:24 pm

I had a DX Racer Shield for some time

I was in love with the design on the back, however did not like how sturdy parts of the chair were.

When I move out, I'll probably invest in a Herman Miller Aeron.

Herman Miller is really nice but they're so expensive. That's why I went with this Staples office chair, it cost me $220 at the time but I think it's like $270 now.

xPow - March 20, 2022, 11:53 pm

I went a bit all out on mine, considering how much time I spend in it.

Mine is a $550USD leather massage chair with heating pads, no branding, just a generic leather massage office chair.

Getting to be a bit aged now, might need to get a new one soon, going to get the most I can out of it though.

Sure, I'll upload one soon.

Just tried to find the manufacturer page for it but 404'd me, maybe they got a newer model now and the ones I could find were in the $300 range and had cords everywhere. This one has a little wireless remote

This is my current chair:

I am using almost this exact same model, actually. I've tried a low of chairs of the years. From big executive La-Z-Boys to gaming chairs to these mesh styles. And the mesh style has been the most appealing for me. Particularly in the summer, where I don't end up sticking to the chair as much because the surrounding air moves through the chair nicely.

Idk why people hate on wooden chairs. They are the OG sitting apparatus and blow any racing style chairs out of the water. True gamers sit atop wood thrones.

Nice, yeah if you're on a lappy then a couch is nice, especially if you have a lap desk. I can dig it.

I have a pretty decent lappy myself but I rarely use it, mostly it's for family visits or bringing it over to friends house to play emulators or movies xD

Yea but a decent lappy can be a desktop set up as well.. all you need is a monitor with HDMI cable and a wireless set or keyboard and mouse for it.

Did you look between the two before getting the Aeron? I'm curious what the differences are. Didn't get a notification that you quoted me, sorry.

I did not look at the two differences. I was told from some of my colleagues that their Aeron was spectacular, so I bought one too. Now, two years later, I'm finding that it really hurts my legs and my hips (I'm 5'10 and 185lbs/84kgs). I'll circle the areas that my thighs push against.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

Side note, my Aeron collects an insane amount of dust. I run a couple whole home air purifiers and yet my Aeron accumulates so much dust that I can fill up the handheld vacuum that I use to clean it. I have to clean it about every 2-3 days. I don't understand how it collects so much dust...

I decided to order a Embody (arrives Monday), to give my legs more room and hopefully not have to clean it so much, lol.

5'10 and 185lbs.

I bike 10-15 miles a day, so I have really big legs and the Aeron digs into the back of my knees.

I also have a tendency of sitting with my legs bent backwards a little bit, and the edge of the chair not being padded was another reason I decided to buy an Embody. Should arrive tomorrow around noon, I can't wait.

Mesh is the way to go imo, this is what I have but there's def better options out there. Also no matter the chair I suggest get arm covers right away to prevent the arm wrest getting messed up (will eventually happen unless they are plastic)

This is the current chair I use at my desk

I got it first because I used to game for hours on end. However, now it still works out great for me when I sit the majority of the day doing design or web development work. It's not the ultimate comfy chair but it does get the job done and has for quite a few years now. I am surprised with how well it has actually held up as I know some gaming chairs wear down fairly quickly.
