That is my usual. I think during the Podcast I did with Sly Cooper and False King this was discussed for a moment. It's been in the back of my mind ever since. HF turns 15 next month. I feel like that's significant and I want us all to celebrate. That "all" includes even older banned members.

I'm gonna try to suck-up the icky feelings of un-banning some people and try to formulate a fair way to return that doesn't have a bias. That's my goal at least. The good news is that on every closed account I have notes on it why they were banned. Should make it easy to figure out if it was for something they be able to return for or something that potentially just offensive to me. Example like "scammer" vs "asshole" in the notes. Scammer can stay gone, asshole might come back. Lord knows I have closed the accounts of hundreds of assholes on HF in the past 10 years.

I also may end up doing a massive purge of older and inactive accounts in the summer. I may even purge older content. At this point I don't think some of our 15 year old content has any use including SEO.

Omni used to be much different. He is much milder natured now, and also engages with the forums a lot more than he used to.

The change was needed, especially considering how much of the services that were sold here aren't anymore. I can imagine that lost him a lot of money.

Now I'm more concerned about the mods abusing me than Omni just getting annoyed and L33ting me off the forums, which is much preferred in my opinion, especially considering I enjoy discussing topics with him and others.

Cap - March 21, 2022, 7:15 pm

Can it be ... the return of Black Shadow? ... That was so long ago that 95% of HF members don't know who he is I bet.

I think this is a solid idea although I'd be a bit concerned about anyone who scammed coming back.

Edit: Should've read above, glad to know.

I remember him back in the Empire days.
Been closed once back in 2013. Then made this account in 2015, which got seized in 2019. Finally got it back in 2022.

Yeah it's only going to be non scammers and I guess people who actually notice the tweets on Twitter about Amnesty April and want to be back. And I guess if you have any banned friends that you're still in touch with that weren't scammers than you guys can contact them.
Forensic could be fun but did he really exit scam or not? I thought he'd be a nicer guy than that. I wonder if Focus Broken will be back.

(Mar 30, 2022 05:21 PM)-Scrub Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What ever happened with [mention=3209658] ? will he ever come back?

His political views are....anarchist, so I think that was already getting on the nerves of some, although I thought it was funny. I didn't see how he could believe that his ideas would work. But it appeared he was unironically pro-anarchy. Then I guess he said something strange and apparently inaccurate regarding Bitcoin. That's just my guess from his post history at the time.

As long as they are non-scammers, it's all good.

Hoping to see some familiar faces in April.
