If you knew the end of the world was tomorrow, what would you do?

hotwheels52 - March 30, 2022, 2:34 pm

I'd continue to browse HackForums, attempting to make high-quality posts and gain reputation.

Ask her if she would spend the day with me. She wouldn't though.

This reminds me of the story of the man who was told he had 2 weeks left to live, he cussed out his boss, divorced his wife, lost everything gambling and burnt his car.

He was later told a mistake was made lol...

Essentially the man destroyed his life within a week for 0 reason.

So my answer to this, absolutely nothing!

TV Show.

The reference: Becker, I'll find the episode reference and update this post.

Update:
Season 4, Episode 11

Transcript Wrote:Becker: It was... I'm so sorry. The-the lab made an error, and your elevated white count was just a-a viral infection.

Mr.Garland: I-I can't believe this.

Becker: I know. It's a horrible mistake. I can only imagine what you've been through, but the good news is, you're fine.

Mr.Garland: The hell I am! I've been living the last two weeks like I only got two weeks left to live. If I'm not dying, I'm a dead man!

Becker: Mr. Garland, I understand that you're angry.

Mr.Garland: No, you don't understand. When I left your office that day, I was devastated. But then I figured, if I've only got a short time to live, Well, I'm going to go out in style.

So the first thing I did was quit my job. Told my boss to go straight to hell.

What did I have to lose?

You told me I was dying.

Becker: Yeah, I understand that.

Becker: But, you know, that's-that's... That's just a job, you know? So you burned a bridge.

Mr.Garland: No, no, I burned his new bmw.

Becker: Why would you do that?

Mr.Garland: Because you told me I was dying!

Becker: Couldn't...Couldn't you pay him back?

Mr.Garland: Oh, I can't. I spent all my money on champagne, Limos and lap dances.

Becker: All of it?

Mr.Garland: I got a lot of lap dances.

Becker: So, you know, so you spent all your money, And you lost your job. But see, all those things are fixable.

Mr.Garland: No. I haven't finished yet. After that, I maxed out my credit cards, Cursed out my wife and sent a photocopy of my ass to the IRS.

Becker: Mr.... Mr. Garland...

Mr.Garland: What-what... What do I do now?!

It all depends on how this world would actually end.
Anyway, I'm probably packing my loved ones and running as far as I can.

Run where? The world is ending. Idk how ... apocalypse, asteroid, something. Let's say it's an asteroid coming.

Indeed, in that case, escape is pointless. However, if the world was to end through a normal armed conflict between different countries, I just pack my bags and run as far away from it as possible.

In such a case, if I was faced with the final end, I would probably just want to spend this time with my loved ones and at least try to reconcile with those whom I once failed / hurt.
It would just be fun to walk away with a little clearer conscience?

Step 2: Separate the McDouble so that there is 1 patty and 1/2 bun on each side

Step 3: Insert McChicken in entirety between patties

Step 4: Place the remaining separated patty/bun on top of the McChicken
