Hey, my name's Nathan and I started digital marketing in about 2013 doing rewards for game accessories and currencies.

From there I had an addiction to figuring out what was happening;

How does an Affiliate Network operate?

How can I provide the least faulty offers to the best converting communities?

How did a developer bring my offers, an account system, a withdrawal system and a point system into one site?

How can I generate free and paid traffic to my website?

How can I use analytics to understand the behaviours of consumers on my site?

If you've got questions like these in mind for your work, you're going far.

Hope all is well, looking forward to getting a few hundred posts up!

Welcome to HackForums.

Great to see nee people with experience.

Let me know if you are looking to build up CPA sites or something. With your experience in the field, I could be up for programming it.

I've got one project using mining software, CPA/GPT/PPC & an exchange in the CPA niche & an agency website marketing services to cover the digital marketing sector. I'd gladly help out, just sadly haven't got the time to start any new projects.

Welcome, Nathan! Gonna be real, I know nothing about that. But I do hope you enjoy the forum.
