You should take another look on how you're ordering data.

On your main page it appears like you're trying to sort by market cap, but once you get half way down the list this fails to hold true.

Additionally if you go to lists like "Smart Contracts" you have 2 coins that should be listed #2 and #5 on that list at the bottom.

Allowing me to sort by the column of my choice would also be a really nice addition. When you look at the markets/pairs for a specific coin there seems to be no reasoning for the order it's listed in.

Site looks good but needs some polishing on the data.

I like the design but it lacks dark theme or if it has dark theme the switch needs to be more obvious.

I couldn't change currency but that could be due to my addons blocking something.

Currency dropdown needs some kind of search. There are 168 currenices and the dropdown takes up around 75% of the page. Not the screen, of whole page.

I like how "Categories" on homepage opens a dropdown on click so it can be used on touch devices. I'd also like it to show dropdown on hover because it wouldn't hurt touch users and would improve pointer users.

Those are some UI/UX problems I've noticed but other then that the site looks good.

Can we know what your website offers that CMC and coingecko don't?

Easy to research coins the coins are filtered by categories and numbers.

you can see predictions from experts, youtubers, and members and what they think about future price. (is still on beta)

my developer team work to add more features

John Hawkins - April 21, 2022, 5:07 pm

Yo this is dope, congrats on this, ofc that there's some missing features but I know u still developing it so I'll just keep checking it, thank you for developing a useful tool!

Clean site without all the BS the other sites shove in your face. Great work!

G Eazy - July 10, 2022, 3:30 pm

Very nice site keep up the good work

I like the site, although can you tell me why terra luna is listed as a "coin with potential" here: <https://coinriders.com/menu/Can-Be-Big>

What algorithm is used to determine if a coin has potential? terra luna holders were rugged so hard most broke their neck on the way down, it's like putting bitconnect on the list.
