My post will be short, the question posed in the thread is a rhetorical question??

No, never. I can't see how it would ever happen.

Cub™ - April 25, 2022, 5:54 am

Nope, I would never count on it.

It will always be corrupt and evil. The government is not just mystical entity in the void, these are real people like you and I who take these positions of power.

I mean, eventually in the existence of Earth, maybe, like in millions of years, but even then I highly doubt it, once we become sustainable as a multi-planetary species, nuclear war will be a easy option, slavery will likely rise again mainly cultivated on other planets, Earth will become the biggest strongest planet which will be obeyed and operated similar to how the United Nations is today.

This is the future I see us heading to Earth will only be a place for the Elite while they eventually evacuate everyone else to slave planets where they will continue to spawn and populate with more slave humans.

And don't get me started on Robots! (Jklol)

whenever you give someone a good and big power, he will always use it in the bad way.
it is like drugs actually.
