I feel that every once in a while a refresher needs to happen. We currently are losing our ground to misinformation and illusions of the truth. They continue to degrade the knowledge of our young further creating a divide between one another, it's what they want to happen. I can absolutely say that the education I received vs what children get today simply prove this point George Carlin makes.

It's a great special he did 20 years ago long before he passed away.

There is also a song/rap that was released at the height of Anonymous that uses quotes from famous speakers in regards to our life and choices.

It's time to ensure you enact the change you want to see, take your choice back and make the change you want to see. Go Vote, Go take back your future before it's too late

It's easy to be caught in a web of easy pleasures and unfortunately technology brings just that to this society. I wonder what 100+ years look like from now because tech is just getting started when you look at the span of time things have evolved including the way society operates.
