Thread: Feeling Thankful Today.

anoncrab - May 11, 2022, 11:45 pm

Hello HF.

I don't know why, but I've been feeling really thankful lately.

Thankful I found this forum.

Thankful for a roof over my head.

Thankful for having good friends to be there for me.

Thankful for the awesome people that have helped build my reputation up on this forum.

Thankful for being alive.

Thankful for having barely any health conditions.

Did you know that there are billions of people starving, being abused, tortured, and more unspeakable things are happening behind closed curtains. Did you know that people out in the world have to literally hunt animals for food? Just hoping and praying that they could get enough water and food to survive until the next day?

It's things like that, that make me happy to be alive, but also feel great sorrow. We live in such a fucking flawed world where nothing is perfect and everything is so fucking broken.

Anyways, thanks to everyone on this forum for being there for me and giving me a platform of people to talk too. ?

Wise men say gratefulness increases in what we have.

Yet a few people find time to appreciate what they have.

Love this post. Made my day. Sometimes we get so stuck in a bad place that we forget to be grateful.

You're whalecum.

On a real note, everyone should be thankful. Things could always be worse.

It's always nice to take a step back and think of all the things in life you are grateful for. Sometimes we get so caught up in the daily hustle of our lives that we don't even stop to think of how good we have it.

I feel the same way OP!

Glad you're feeling good.

I too am thankful. Regardless of the issues or stress, I'm breathing, I'm healthy (somewhat) and I have goals/ambitions. That is all i need ... for now <3

Glad you are in a positive spot in your life. If only more people had the guts to say what they were thankful for.
