Pound - May 23, 2022, 6:31 pm

What do you prefer ? I personally hate facial hair and can't stand a beard but it grows that quick I just deal with it, but I preferably prefer myself to be all baby faced

Silkroad - May 23, 2022, 6:32 pm

It sucks 'cause when I got a beard I'm always picking it and I find it annoying but I look wayyy better with it lol

I'm the opposite I think I look homeless when it gets too long haha

blackrose_x0x0 - May 23, 2022, 6:34 pm

Beard. Growing it out was a bit of a hassle and very itchy but once it got some length and I invested in some beard products I never looked back. I trim and touch it up about once a week compared to when I used to shave daily in my younger days.

Regulus - May 23, 2022, 6:39 pm

I mean as soon as I get some beard I shave it away as soon as possible.

Although I've had my lazy days where I can't bother taking care of it, but yeah, I prefer without beard and mustache.

With beard and mustache I look like 30+

Without it I feel fresh and kinda look like 20 at least lmao

Omg. You are defining me to an absolute t. We have the same problem my friend.

Komodo - May 23, 2022, 6:41 pm

I'm inbetween, I always have stubble but never clean shaved or a full grown beard.
Just somewhere in the middle. I like it.

Me too because there definitely isn't many , that's for sure. Everyone seems to like them

Prawnster - May 23, 2022, 6:43 pm

I prefer beard, feel that if you maintain it nicely and trim it properly then it can add extra definition to your face, I keep mine decently short but not like stubble. That way it's not overly difficult to maintain - Although, I just get the barber to do it when I go for a haircut because I go for one of those like once every 2 weeks.

I feel that I do, I'm just lazy I can't be bothered maintaining it probably would look ok shaped up and clean but idk just not for me

Bob White - May 23, 2022, 6:47 pm

Yeah, if I get too busy or go into a cheeky little few weeks of depression, I do start to look scruffy hahah.

However, does make me feel fuckin on point when I go for the haircut after a period of time like that n basically removes my depressive feeling for a bit again ?

Yeah the relief is quite a feeling, I generally feel like a new man after leaving both beard and hair for like a month. Wow it is something else.

A nearly trimmed beard is the best option for me. Otherwise i look like a baby. lol

V?rt - May 23, 2022, 7:43 pm

I currently have a beard. I'm fairly young, but look even younger whenever I don't have a beard. I just feel naked without it at this point. I keep it groomed and neat though, and don't keep it too long.

revitlow - May 23, 2022, 8:15 pm

Surely beard, makes the face look waaaaay more appealing

SoulHarvester - May 23, 2022, 8:51 pm

Wish I could rock facial hair but I straight up look homeless.

Grim - May 23, 2022, 11:28 pm

I prefer without but like you said I'm lazy as well so let it grow

SIM-3878067 - May 23, 2022, 11:29 pm

My girl doesn't even want to see me the first few weeks after I shave lmao. I don't blame her, I look like 2 different people.

bevc - May 23, 2022, 11:43 pm

I have stubble at the moment, I can grow a good beard but my wife doesn't like it - in my experience women usually have a strong opinion about beards one way or the other, either they love them or they hate them.

Shaving every day is a pain, maintaining a beard is a pain, so I just go somewhere in the middle.

For me it makes no difference.

I have times when my beard looks like a Gandalf's beard and I don't mind at all?

Jake Johnson - May 24, 2022, 5:42 am

Normally I don't let my facial hair grow long enough to become a full beard. I trim it regularly to keep it at just some stubble. I might not trim it for a few days to let it grow just a bit but I do trim it at least once a week as a reset so it doesn't grow too long. I like having some facial hair as then I am not walking around with a baby face lol.

Rahul007rhp - May 24, 2022, 5:52 am

Beard definitely bro.

I look like shitty child without it. My GF has clearly mentioned if you shave your beard we aren't supposed to hangout till my beard doesn't grow.

AMUHACKz - May 24, 2022, 7:16 pm

Definitely yes to the beard. I have a bald head so without it I look like someone's thumb with shoulders! When I line it up it's pretty nice though.

Grim - May 25, 2022, 3:58 pm

i think a beard is better if you can grow it properly

1337GAMER - May 25, 2022, 4:11 pm

I've had a beard for more than 20 years, so definitely beard. :)

Omniscient - May 25, 2022, 5:37 pm

Beard guy mainly because I got a weak looking chin that my wife makes fun of. I'm also too lazy to deal with it regularly. My beard grows so fast I'd have to shave probably every other day.

Maskin - May 25, 2022, 5:51 pm

I don't have gandalf beard but just enough so that my round head/face gets less round and more dynamic. It's hard to have it look nice and fresh all the time, but I'm thinking about getting a heat comb to replace the classic comb and hairdrying.

All depends on if you can rock it or not. Some can, some look better without; I personally let mine grow and trim every week.

So i have this technique, if i trim it all the way i look much younger than my age and then if keep it i look older for my age and this part is what i believe is if i keep as states light then i look my age. ?

So depending on where i am going or what the situation is this is how i go about it. LOL

Jake Johnson - June 14, 2022, 5:15 pm

I always have at least some stubble on my face. I don't like having a baby face as I look too young but then I also don't want my facial hair getting too long. This is why I trim my facial hair routinely. The longest I'd probably go is 4-5 days maybe a week at tops but then it just gets messy looking. I prefer to keep a closer celaned-up stubble look.

MavenGradle - June 14, 2022, 5:23 pm

I shave once a week because I am lazy and because after a week the itching just gets to me. Too distracting to do any kind of work if you're constantly scratching your beard.
