Thread: Do you think we live in a simulation?

SIM-5097301 - May 24, 2022, 6:09 pm

After all the crazy things that have happened in the last few years it wouldn't surprise me if we did. Do you think we live in a simulation or are an enclosed experiment?

NLSwiper - May 24, 2022, 6:15 pm

Nope, I think thats how people end up being skitzo..

Sure there are lots of things hidden from the general population, and scholars not wanting to re-write the history books, or science.. But I do think there is something after death maybe we do wake up from a simulation, maybe we re-incarnate into a butterfly who really knows...

But I do think should live life as it is, make the most of it, and try and educate yourself about everything that we don't have records of like past technology or what certain types of things people where about to accomplish with spirituality all of those things are interesting to me.

OnlyFans_Profit - May 24, 2022, 6:37 pm

I don't think we are living in a simulation. I just think we are.

Hell - May 24, 2022, 6:43 pm

I think we are the simulation. Haha

(May 24, 2022 06:36 PM)phantomman55 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I think we do but that depends on how you define a simulating. This concept is that if a computer can replicate our worlds physics then it means that our world is a simulation. I would say yes it's a simulation but not at all like a computer system. It has it's own system and set of rules so it's possible to be a simulation that someone or something made.

Yes that's what I mean a type of computer beyond our understanding that can run multiple copies of our world but with slightly different variants

This is eye opening and possibly my new signature

Livewire - May 24, 2022, 7:01 pm

If it's something loosely defined as a simulation it's possible. Maybe it is something out of our ability to comprehend or evaluate.

Blunt - May 24, 2022, 7:04 pm

Fuck it I'm tryna simulate some big ol tittys

SoulHarvester - May 24, 2022, 7:53 pm

No and I have argued with a feller that insisted he was in a simulation and everyone in his world was npcs. I was like bro you're saying this shit straight to our faces.. wtf?

Jake Johnson - May 24, 2022, 8:13 pm

I don't think we are living in a simulation. I have heard people say it before but I don't think so. Who knows maybe I'm wrong but I just don't see it.

AMUHACKz - May 24, 2022, 9:05 pm

That's actually a common thought of a lot of people I know.. If so the question is what next?

I think that if the world around us is a carefully developed illusion, sooner or later it would come to light. Someone who would supervise it would have to make a mistake that would eventually lead to the disclosure of such an incident.

molly69 - May 25, 2022, 2:51 am

Unfortunately, we live in a society.

Lol perfectly worded I will give you that!

Eran - May 25, 2022, 9:08 am

Nah, the world has just gone mad.

Sleep - May 25, 2022, 2:42 pm

I have to say that the simulation theory is quite fascinating. but not sure what I believe.

I love the part on Wiki where it talks about testing if we live in a simulation and at the end, this is put:

In 2019, philosopher Preston Greene suggested that it may be best not to find out if we're living in a simulation since, if it were found to be true, such knowing may end the simulation.

Grim - May 25, 2022, 3:47 pm

i doubt it but honestly with this universe anything is possible

Nullusia - May 25, 2022, 9:25 pm

Nah but I don't even blame the people who think we do at this point.

Interesting but also concerning how much thought was put into that statement lol.

Somewhat of a sim yeah... I think theres sooo much more to our consciousness than we can fathom

Things just seem so weird in what we call reality. I did a deep dive on the Mandela effect which was crazy the possibilities are endless and spooky

I can get behind that, but in another time line, possibly, the world has gone sane

Yeah i did that too.. it's a crazy subject. I remember so many things from before 2012/13 that are different. It's a head fxck

Gentl3man - May 29, 2022, 1:09 am

It's so weird topic. On one hand world is changing so fast that for me it is unbelievable that we don't live in simulation. On the other hand it's so hard to imagine how this simulation would work.

Zero - May 29, 2022, 2:20 am

How many years are left before we reach the point virtual reality looks like real life? Even if we're even 50 years away from that how can we be sure we aren't in one? Or two? Or more?

If we were, half of the people alive should log out and create a new profile, spend the skill points on intelligence for once, rather than going full shit ?

Probably we need a refresh button as well. Hell yeah !!

Definitely, vote for me for president and I will setup a player reset button.

MavenGradle - May 29, 2022, 1:26 pm

In order to prove that you are in a simulation you would need to break outside of the simulation. Since that is impossible, it's a theory to waste your time on. However, if we happen to create simulations ourselves, the chances of us being in one increases, especially if our simulated beings would start to simulate themselves.

No we don't live in a simulation the world is real and so am i balera2212 - May 29, 2022, 6:18 pm

Almost sure we're just living one of possible scenarios.
Our science progress is too fast and people is too stupid

65DUD - June 1, 2022, 3:59 pm

I sometimes think we could be in a simulation or something like in a world where we are actually really small and we can't have a perception of the world we actually live in. More like we would be micro to some macro world.

Ohh there is a lot of talk on topics like these in our ancient books in India. These are such amazing facts/talks your mind gets blown.

If you ever get time do read/listen to astavakra Geet, It has been explained by in a series of Videos by Sri Sri Ravi Shankar (found of NGO Art Of Living)

It starts like there is this king and he is sitting in his assembly and he somewhat falls asleep and in his sleep he sees that he is a child who has not eaten for quite some time and he is really really hungry. And suddenly he wakes up and he understands ohh he was dreaming but he still feels the hunger to a certain extent which he was feeling while sleeping.

So he gets confused as to What is Real, Is the world he is currently a King is real or the world he supposedly dreamt of is real.

And then the dialogue begins With the question. WHAT is Real?

Really a great book to read, but better to listen to the video explained.
