Not a brag post, more of a vent!

Today is June 1st, happens to be my birthday as well. Long story short, my girlfriend forgot it was today and thought it was the weekend. My mother has came and seen me every year for my birthday, besides when I was in the military. This year she didn't and my father hasn't said a word to me today.

My kids didn't say anything but they are 4 and 3 so my expectations for them to remember are slim to none, no harm no foul there. Just wanted a normal birthday I guess.

Couple years ago on my birthday, my baby momma cheated on me in my house with my "best friend" since then I've stayed away from "friends" or really anything.

Thanks for reading and listening. This isn't a feel bad for me post, again I just needed to vent. I hope everyone has/had a great day!

I couldn't find a section this belongs in, if it needs moved please move it to the correct place!

I am sorry to hear about your situation OP.

I wish you happy birthday and hope they make up to you somehow.

Happy Birthday!

I'm curious why military bros always get cheated on though.
Thank you, rough typing it out too.

I've noticed a lot of our military brothers and sister getting cheated on, it sucks boss.

Happy birthday???

A bit late wishes, but completely sincere?

I wish you health, fulfillment in life and success in everything you do??

Sometimes it happens that the people around you just forget things like a family member's birthday. On my own example, I know how often this can happen. In fact, I was able to forget about my birthday myself, being absorbed in work or other things?

After all, it is your holiday, on this day you should do something for yourself and you will be completely justified to not give a damn about the whole world on this special day for you?

A little late but,

Happy BirthDay, OP!

Mistakes can happen, please don't take it too harshly on yourself.
I mean have you never forgotten someone else's birthday?

Be grateful you have 2 kids and teach them what is right in this world, like not forgetting someone's birthday ;)

Happy birthday my friend! Hope you're having a good time, anyway.

Happy birthday, brother. You're a good man.

Hey buddy.

Curious to know how your family reacted when they realized they missed your birthday.

Make sure you guilt them into giving you a gift or something. LOL

Well they all said that they were busy, understandable but still. They just brushed it off for the most part. Let's see if I get anything, if not no biggie.
