

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: If you had a time machine

The Pact - June 6, 2022, 3:08 am

My younger son keeps talking about time machines a lot and he really wants to build one. And it's actually pretty sad, because I know the reason is because his father (my husband) died. But anyway what would you do with one?

Polymath - June 6, 2022, 3:15 am

Go back in time and get BTC

The Pact - June 6, 2022, 3:23 am

(Jun 6, 2022 03:15 AM)Polymath Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Go back in time and get BTC

Haha yeah. I knew it existed in 2012-2014 and considered figuring out what the hell it was and getting some. I knew because people here were talking about it. But I thought nuh and I'm still kind of dumb about crypto. Doah.

I do remember having moments of seriously considering buying some because of people here posting excitedly about it. But didn't get around to it. ???

skull - June 6, 2022, 4:01 am

(Jun 6, 2022 03:15 AM)Polymath Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Go back in time and get BTC

I would do the same.

I did buy some but I would buy a shit ton more and live like a king now.

bevc - June 6, 2022, 4:06 am

I'd kick Hitler's dad in the balls.

Jake Johnson - June 6, 2022, 5:44 am

Honestly, like others have stated I would go back in time and buy a whole bunch of BTC. I knew what it was back then but I just never pulled the trigger and invested in it... while I also was younger so didn't really have the funds to invest in it and trying to convince a parent back then that bitcoin was going to rise was impossible lol.

SoulHarvester - June 6, 2022, 5:54 am

I would've never joined to military so I could've saved my health and life expectancy.

Eran - June 6, 2022, 7:12 am

As others, probably would have bought a bunch of BTC so I can focus on other goals without worrying about finances.

Pound - June 6, 2022, 7:19 am

Go back to school and study proper.

SoulHarvester - June 6, 2022, 7:28 am

(Jun 6, 2022 07:19 AM)Pound Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Go back to school and study proper.

What would you study Pound ? Also how far are you from lounge head?

Pound - June 6, 2022, 7:30 am

(Jun 6, 2022 07:28 AM)SoulHarvester Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What would you study Pound ? Also how far are you from lounge head?

That's a good question. I have a few things in mind and at around 35% long way to go.

anoncrab - June 7, 2022, 1:20 am

Just go back in time to the early 2000's and relive the good times. Even the 90's wouldn't be too bad IMO. It seems like ever since 2020 hit, things have gone to shit. COVID, protests, potential WWII, January 6th Insurrection at the White house... and now with Russia wanting to obliterate Ukraine, and China wanting to invade Taiwan, it just seems like things keep getting worse. Back in the early 2000's, things were so much simpler. Sure, some bad things still happened, but not nearly to the scale they are happening today. I feel as if the nukes could go off any second, it's just a matter of time.

Nullusia - June 7, 2022, 5:41 pm

Yeh basically buy crypto and also just turn back the years to my youth to start again.

g9rz - June 25, 2022, 5:09 am i would go back in time buy lottery tickets and come back be a millionaire then i would go back in time and buy bitcoin and be a billionaire buy an island and live there like i had minecraft irl

rezzx - June 25, 2022, 9:46 am just for investing purposes to be honest

SIM-5097301 - June 25, 2022, 10:27 am

I would go back and choose a different path, focus on health & grab some crypto too.

It would be really cool to go back to the 60s with today's knowledge that would the first thing I'd do

Raymond Reddington - June 25, 2022, 12:23 pm

I would go back and buy more BTC, if I couldn't do that, then I'd stop my old self from selling as much BTC as I did.

Upgrader - June 25, 2022, 12:31 pm

(Jun 25, 2022 12:23 PM)Raymond Reddington Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I would go back and buy more BTC, if I couldn't do that, then I'd stop my old self from selling as much BTC as I did.

Now is still an excellent buy range (sub 20k-20k) although I remember $500 BTC ?

Raymond Reddington - June 25, 2022, 12:39 pm

(Jun 25, 2022 12:31 PM)YouTube. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Now is still an excellent buy range (sub 20k-20k) although I remember $500 BTC ?

Definitely, I've been buying up some BTC lately however I'm keeping some stablecoin to average in (when the stock recession hits). I think we still could hit new bottoms if the stock market tanks.

Upgrader - June 25, 2022, 12:40 pm

(Jun 25, 2022 12:39 PM)Raymond Reddington Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Definitely, I've been buying up some BTC lately however I'm keeping some stablecoin to average in (when the stock recession hits). I think we still could hit new bottoms if the stock market tanks.

Which stablecoin did you pick if I may ask? A lot of sketchy algo coins.

vegetajgd - June 28, 2022, 4:00 am

(Jun 25, 2022 12:23 PM)Raymond Reddington Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I would go back and buy more BTC, if I couldn't do that, then I'd stop my old self from selling as much BTC as I did.

hahah This. IS IT and i would say apart from BTC i would buy more alts ..

Hey and to OP i want to go multiple times to multiple places. please grant my wish :P

Also the thing i would want is even though i would have say 100000 BTC it doesn't change the future. Just let me have that many right now with the current knowledge/person i am.

This would be the best case scenario.

Craada - June 28, 2022, 5:41 am

(Jun 6, 2022 03:08 AM)The Pact Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) My younger son keeps talking about time machines a lot and he really wants to build one. And it's actually pretty sad, because I know the reason is because his father (my husband) died. But anyway what would you do with one?
First of all, i'd go back and win the biggest lottery!

bevc - June 28, 2022, 6:50 am

(Jun 7, 2022 01:20 AM)anoncrab Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Just go back in time to the early 2000's and relive the good times. Even the 90's wouldn't be too bad IMO. It seems like ever since 2020 hit, things have gone to shit. COVID, protests, potential WWII, January 6th Insurrection at the White house... and now with Russia wanting to obliterate Ukraine, and China wanting to invade Taiwan, it just seems like things keep getting worse. Back in the early 2000's, things were so much simpler. Sure, some bad things still happened, but not nearly to the scale they are happening today. I feel as if the nukes could go off any second, it's just a matter of time.

Some stuff was better in the 90s, some stuff was worse. I do feel sorry for young people these days, growing up in the glare of social media, potential nuclear annihilation, all our self-made catastrophes etc, but have you ever tried watching a movie on VHS? Imagine getting poked in both eyes with a big stick and having cotton wool stuffed in your ears while watching a screen the size of a gnat's erection. And that's if you could get hold of a new film, otherwise your options were whatever you had lying around, which usually meant Forrest Gump or Mrs Doubtfire.

And if you were a healthy young boy, and craved quality 'jazz' material? Forget it, there was nothing like there is now, no absurdly graphic blue movies with a surprisingly compelling narrative and convincing performances, available at the touch of a button for every conceivable fetish, for free, with a crystal clear soundtrack of the royal philharmonic orchestra playing rule Britannia through your bluetooth paired surround-sound speakers. The best you could hope for was that a Spice Girls music video might appear on the telly while everyone else was out, so that you could eat toblerone and cry-wank yourself to sleep. Probably.

Laughing Man - June 28, 2022, 9:55 am

Go back in time and listen to people who gave me amazing advice.

The Pact - June 28, 2022, 4:45 pm

(Jun 28, 2022 06:50 AM)bevc Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Some stuff was better in the 90s, some stuff was worse. I do feel sorry for young people these days, growing up in the glare of social media, potential nuclear annihilation,

In the 80s kids were taught to be terrified of nuclear annihilation. For some reason adults thought this was a fun, educational, topical issue to teach 12-14 year olds.

bevc - June 28, 2022, 10:38 pm

(Jun 28, 2022 04:45 PM)The Pact Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) In the 80s kids were taught to be terrified of nuclear annihilation. For some reason adults thought this was a fun, educational, topical issue to teach 12-14 year olds.

My dad can remember the Cuban missile crisis, when they told kids to hide under their school desks in the event of nuclear apocalypse, as if that was going to help.

Lilith - June 28, 2022, 11:00 pm

Depends on how it works. Assuming I'd wake up in my body at that time but retain my brain now, think Hot Tub Time Machine, I'd go back to the start of 9th grade. If it just let me go back to visit, probably just to 2009 or something to load up on crypto or some shit, idk.

Rionxee - June 28, 2022, 11:04 pm

I would travel back to ancient Rome during the pax romana and discuss philosophy, eat figs, drink wine, and have orgies all day because what else would anyone ever want?

bevc - June 28, 2022, 11:11 pm

(Jun 28, 2022 11:04 PM)Rionxee Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I would travel back to ancient Rome during the pax romana and discuss philosophy, eat figs, drink wine, and have orgies all day because what else would anyone ever want?

Dental care? Antibiotics? Anaesthetic?

And I think the "pax" was only "paxful" so long as you were a rich citizen and you weren't a slave, poor, etc.

I--I - June 28, 2022, 11:19 pm

You just go back to 2008 and mine bitcoin bruh... EZ win.

Juoku - June 29, 2022, 4:46 am

Other than the BTC craze everyone mentioned, I would actually like to experience the past, see what Egypt, Rome, Greece looked like in their glory days, check out ancient times and see if some myths are real, how people lived and such.

I think it would be super fascinating to have the option to travel to different times in the past and just observe.

The Pact - June 29, 2022, 6:42 am

(Jun 29, 2022 04:46 AM)Juoku Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Other than the BTC craze everyone mentioned, I would actually like to experience the past, see what Egypt, Rome, Greece looked like in their glory days, check out ancient times and see if some myths are real, how people lived and such.

I think it would be super fascinating to have the option to travel to different times in the past and just observe.

Yeah this is pretty cool. I'm interested in the Victorian Era though even that would be a pain to live in but you could look at some of the famous artists paint and such.

I would like to go back to the 90s just for personal reasons. Actually have little babies again I'd love that.

bevc - June 29, 2022, 6:57 am

(Jun 29, 2022 06:42 AM)The Pact Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Actually have little babies again I'd love that.

No offence, but women are so weird. At no point in my life, even for a second, have I thought to myself, 'You know what? I'd like to grow a small human inside of me, then after 9 months have it violently burst out of my nethers in a spew of blood and guts and amniotic fluid. Oh, and then that small human alternate between utter helplessness and urgent self-destruction for the next 18 years, while I'm legally responsible for it's wellbeing. That sounds like fun.'

vegetajgd - June 29, 2022, 9:19 pm

Man i just realised if i could go again and again back in time, What will happen to our present, in the sense while i am gone how does the time work, Like in Avengers Steve Rogers spent a lifetime there and came back old but here he had only gone for a few seconds/minutes i think.

I do not want that :P

The Pact - June 30, 2022, 12:10 am

(Jun 29, 2022 09:19 PM)vegetajgd Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Man i just realised if i could go again and again back in time, What will happen to our present, in the sense while i am gone how does the time work, Like in Avengers Steve Rogers spent a lifetime there and came back old but here he had only gone for a few seconds/minutes i think.

I do not want that :P

Those concepts are played with in fiction. In CS Lewis books time years in Narnia are only minutes in the real world. That wasn't time travel though. But what happens with that in Back to the Future? It's not like that the time line is just altered. But what happens in Stephen King's time travel book? I bought that but still haven't read it unfortunately.

Yes like everyone wish I'd bought Bitcoin in 2012-2014 when I freaking did know about from HF but was kind of like "hmm what's that? Maybe I should buy some. Hmm I'll think about it." Never did.

vegetajgd - June 30, 2022, 12:18 am

(Jun 30, 2022 12:10 AM)The Pact Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Those concepts are played with in fiction. In CS Lewis books time years in Narnia are only minutes in the real world. That wasn't time travel though. But what happens with that in Back to the Future? It's not like that the time line is just altered. But what happens in Stephen King's time travel book? I bought that but still haven't read it unfortunately.

Yes like everyone wish I'd bought Bitcoin in 2012-2014 when I freaking did know about from HF but was kind of like "hmm what's that? Maybe I should buy some. Hmm I'll think about it." Never did. Exactly you never know how time will play out, it's like there is no True or False in this scenario. Truth is Multidimensional.

Here is from science point of view :

There is also another part of this series, absolutely amazing.

And then you listen to talks by Sri Sri Ravi Shankar and you realise. How little do we know.

Not exactly time travel but stuff about time after a few seconds of a different question.

As for BTC, Well i had bought it and i had to sell it, but if i could get a chance to buy more hey i would have definitely not sold it then for whatever reason.