

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: are you guys afraid of any carnival rides

hayesh - June 14, 2022, 8:11 am

I asked this question because my mom is deeply terrified of any ride that has a height requirement and is only comfortable with kid rides like the merry go round. I like just about anything that leaves the ground or something that makes you feel a lot of G force, it's pretty exciting to me.

Migos - June 14, 2022, 9:03 am

(Jun 14, 2022 08:11 AM)hayesh Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I asked this question because my mom is deeply terrified of any ride that has a height requirement and is only comfortable with kid rides like the merry go round. I like just about anything that leaves the ground or something that makes you feel a lot of G force, it's pretty exciting to me.

Of course the amusement rides are scary they are supposed to be. The fun part is knowing you won't die and when it's over the feeling like damn that was crazy. So I recommend you give it a go.

Jake Johnson - June 14, 2022, 9:34 am

(Jun 14, 2022 08:11 AM)hayesh Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I asked this question because my mom is deeply terrified of any ride that has a height requirement and is only comfortable with kid rides like the merry go round. I like just about anything that leaves the ground or something that makes you feel a lot of G force, it's pretty exciting to me.

If we are talking carnival rides I can't even tell you the last time I was at a carnival. The ones that move from city to city are usually kind of sketchy with their safety practices on the rides as well lol.

Now if we are talking about amusement park rides then I absolutely love them. Some rollercoasters take some guts for me to go on but other than that I enjoy most amusement park rides.

Raymond Reddington - June 14, 2022, 11:18 am

I'm not really afraid of any rides per se but I'm afraid of malfunctions and potential disasters. There's been quite a lot of news articles about faulty rides causing fatalities or injuries.

Eran - June 14, 2022, 11:20 am

Hell naw. I've been at Gardaland in Italy several times, and at other smaller adrenaline parks. I loved it!

Truth - June 14, 2022, 11:29 am

The ones that are old, rusty and no maintenance that look like it could snap any moment, those ones are the best

hayesh - June 14, 2022, 11:35 am

(Jun 14, 2022 11:29 AM)Truth Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The ones that are old, rusty and no maintenance that look like it could snap any moment, those ones are the best haha that's pretty funny

Gary - June 14, 2022, 11:38 am

(Jun 14, 2022 09:03 AM)Migos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Of course the amusement rides are scary they are supposed to be. The fun part is knowing you won't die and when it's over the feeling like damn that was crazy. So I recommend you give it a go.

It's even more fun if you're in a third world country with no safety regulations so you might actually die.

hayesh - June 14, 2022, 11:40 am

(Jun 14, 2022 11:38 AM)Gary. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Its even more fun if you're in a third world country with no safety regulations so you might actually die.

also when the staff have been working for 12 hours and are 70+ years old smokers

Blunt - June 14, 2022, 11:58 am

Last one I went on was crazy as fuck. Few weeks later some teen died on the same ride I was on. Scary shit vegetajgd - June 14, 2022, 5:16 pm

(Jun 14, 2022 08:11 AM)hayesh Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I asked this question because my mom is deeply terrified of any ride that has a height requirement and is only comfortable with kid rides like the merry go round.I like just about anything that leaves the ground or something that makes you feel a lot of G force,its pretty exciting to me.

Well for me its not that i hate it, but what has happened over the years is, There would always be an Amusement Part and a Water park just beside each other. AND LIKE ALWAYS.

so what i do end up doing is going there and end up buying the water part ticket each time. That is how much i love Water or doing water sports. So not even once i have gone to the amusement part for the simple reason of theWater Park being just beside it lol.

Oh i did take all the rides available in the water part from kids to height/weight requirement sooo.... :)

Upgrader - June 14, 2022, 8:37 pm

Amusement park rides? No.

Fair/"Carnival" rides, yes.

There was one local to me that malfunctioned causing a fatality.

Jake Johnson - June 14, 2022, 8:44 pm

(Jun 14, 2022 08:37 PM)YouTube. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Amusement park rides? No.

Fair/"Carnival" rides, yes.

There was one local to me that malfunctioned causing a fatality.

That's exactly what I am saying! I am totally fine with Amusement park rides but when it comes to carnival rides ehhe I will think twice on those. I mean I can't even tell you the last time I was at a carnival so it really isn't an issue for me. However, those rides are transported a lot to wherever the next carnival is at. I have heard too many horror stories or scary shit that happened because of carnival rides malfunctioning.

Upgrader - June 14, 2022, 8:47 pm

(Jun 14, 2022 08:44 PM)Jake Johnson Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's exactly what I am saying! I am totally fine with Amusement park rides but when it comes to carnival rides ehhe I will think twice on those. I mean I can't even tell you the last time I was at a carnival so it really isn't an issue for me. However, those rides are transported a lot to wherever the next carnival is at. I have heard too many horror stories or scary shit that happened because of carnival rides malfunctioning.

Not to mention they are run by 70 year olds or literal children who should not be operating them. The case local to me had a 15 year old running it.

Jake Johnson - June 14, 2022, 8:51 pm

(Jun 14, 2022 08:47 PM)YouTube. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not to mention they are run by 70 year olds or literal children who should not be operating them. The case local to me had a 15 year old running it. Yea it's a hard no for me on carnival rides. At least amusement park rides don't get transported and have much more high-level safety checks and even safety features for that matter.

Raymond Reddington - June 15, 2022, 11:18 pm

I feel that all carnival/amusement park rides should be inspected on a very regular basis to prevent fatalities. Amusement parks definitely have to look out for their customers more often, even if they're protected by waivers and agreements lol.

Nullusia - June 16, 2022, 10:21 am

Nah, I've yet to find a ride that I'm scared of. I'd sit on anything tbh

Upgrader - June 16, 2022, 6:26 pm

(Jun 16, 2022 10:21 AM)Nullusia Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Nah, I've yet to find a ride that I'm scared of. I'd sit on anything tbh

Even when there's little to no safety checks?

Nullusia - June 18, 2022, 2:09 am

(Jun 16, 2022 06:26 PM)YouTube. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Even when there's little to no safety checks?

I haven't been on any abroad tbh, other than scuba diving in turkey which I had to sign a contract to say basically if I died it wasn't there fault. But over here health and safety is so strongly regulated you never really have to worry about stuff like that

Upgrader - June 18, 2022, 2:10 am

(Jun 18, 2022 02:09 AM)Nullusia Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I haven't been on any abroad tbh, other than scuba diving in turkey which I had to sign a contract to say basically if I died it wasn't there fault. But over here health and safety is so strongly regulated you never really have to worry about stuff like that It's supposed to be regulated at carnivals/fairs here, but even just looking at them you can see they were not done to an extent I feel comfortable 'risking' my life for.

Nullusia - June 18, 2022, 2:16 am

(Jun 18, 2022 02:10 AM)YouTube. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's supposed to be regulated at carnivals/fairs here, but even just looking at them you can see they were not done to an extent I feel comfortable 'risking' my life for.

Yeh, if that's the case definitely not worth it. Risking life for a bit of adrenaline appeals to some based on some crazy stunts I've seen on YouTube but lack of safety regulation is definitely a turn off