Thread: I miss my grandma

AI sensory - June 26, 2022, 10:58 am

Just wanted to vent .. it's been a while since I've seen her and my parents and family are getting older.

Unfortunately I've been wasting time. I need some pointers. My real dad wasn't in my life, I just met him.

I love my grandparents so much. I love their parents. I just had a niece I have been wanting to give up..

Just wanted to say HF And the people here have kept me out of the streets. And have kept me alive. I am indebted forever. The near future is uncertain but I know anything is possible. Not every HF Member is hateful or will put you down the few; but I really love the genuine members that show their all, I will never forget you. No matter what.

Glad to lend an ear to you when need it. On behalf of the HF community, we're here to listen always :)

May I suggest spending a bit more time with them, especially your dad (obviously not too much time) to get acquainted more with them? Sounds like a perfect occasion to bond with your family, over the vacations or holidays or so.

I'm really trying. With Covid, I can't seem to get enough ever to get transportation. I need to

I will explain everything it's rough.

What's the issue you're facing with transportation?

There are multiple modes for conveyance: coach, trains, flights, if not by water. (depending upon factors such as geography, distance, feasibility)

Louisiana is a very weird place. Mostly bayou, and flatlands, hills.

She stays in the bayou and doesn't have AC, I'm worried about her. I need a vehicle I'm hoping soon.. my niece needs me..

Take Care OP. And i want to let anybody reading this know, that although we are on the internet and maybe far away from each other, We are sort of a family and if anytime you feel like to vent out, do here, no judgments here at all.

Just take care of your health and rest whatever you want to you will be able to do it.
