Thread: Radix Protocol Fork

Omniscient - June 28, 2022, 10:23 am

Quote:Dear Validator,

We wanted to reach out to let you know that version 1.3.0 of the Radix node has been released. This node version includes the first Radix protocol fork.

Failure to upgrade your node in time will cause your node to break when the fork occurs.

As a validator, you should also signal readiness for the fork by following the coordinated forking documentation.

Upgrade to 1.3.0 before next Monday 4th July to avoid any possible issues with the fork affecting your node. See the release notes on github for more information. Please pay particular attention to the release notes if upgrading from 1.1.0 or below.

If you have any questions please contact us via the Validator Discord Channel

All the Best
Radix Team

Because I was running a validator I got that email. Mentioning it because everyone should check over the next week that any validator nodes you have stakes with are still running and upgraded to this new fork.

Only worth it if they offer reasonable rates after the 7 days.

It's down to 63%. But still, not too bad.
