Thread: Need TikTok Critiques!

Vader - July 2, 2022, 2:23 pm

So I've been posting daily on TikTok all month for 2 of my accounts (Personal & Supplement Brand)

I'm hiring someone to do daily posting for my supplement brand. If I send my accounts over to you would you be able to give me some criticism on how I could do better? None of the vids are blowing up. Even the influencer vids that I'm paying for aren't getting any traction.

Let me know how I could improve please!

Not seeing any results with my supplement brand is discouraging but it's a learning and growing process. So I'd take anything that people would be willing to share about how I could make my content more engaging. Thanks :)

Just post them here. Nobody is going to PM you to wait to tell you that your content is shit.

Repost the content a few times. Sometimes this changes the algorithm into your favour

If you want to shoot me a DM I'll give you some feedback on things you can do to improve your channel.

Sure, our 2 accounts have 500k+ followers. I'm also in the supplement market, so I know what works and what doesn't on TikTok.

Send it over.

I'm sure there's a subforum here to find people? Hire something section.

Bumping this because I would love some feedback.

Also should I post them here? I've never been one to post personal/brand info on forums. But this forum seems like its a bit safer in the more recent years.

Once you understand TikTok's algorithm, it's much easier. There are certain timeframes and days to post that may gain more views, you need to test the waters with it.

I have personally been growing a psychology TikTok for about a year now. Some videos do really well, others not so much. My highest viewed video is 1.8M, but recently (these past two weeks) my average video view is about 500. It's discouraging to say the least, but keep pushing content and make sure it's quality content that's not a repeat of what's already being posted.

Keep pushing content at peak activity time (check analytics), use hashtags relevant to your video, follow people who follow other big pages that are your niche, interact with other users...

Would love to chat about tiktok if you're down. Been posting for months now and the highest viewed vid I got was 80k. Then other vids that went up to 30k, 20k, 10k. Rarely do I hit higher than 10k now.

I've been working on understanding the algorithm. And I've been posting vids during those timeframes. If I could get a 1.8mil viewed vid on tiktok my life would change. The amount of $ in sales that an ad of that scale would produce is insane. especially since it costs nothing to post these vids.

to my understanding you need to:

- hook the audience within the first 3 seconds
- dance around the point and make them wait until the end
- add a call to action at the end (optional)
- use hooking sounds + visuals to keep the viewer entertained just a basic layout of how i should form these.

do you think interacting + following users actually helps with vid growth? currently right now im posting on 4 accounts, each of them following 0 people. I do respond to comments + make video replies with comments though
