

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Failing making small money online

cyberpunk26 - July 6, 2022, 6:51 am

I am trying to make some money online, even 500 dollars a month will be great, but can't find what to do. Initially i thought about dropshipping, but i'm looking for something else. All of the online surveys sites are for US residents only. I have some very good English and i thought maybe to be a transcriptionist. What are some good ideas? I have full professional English, nearly native, i am highly technical, and i have a US citizenship

SoulHarvester - July 6, 2022, 7:01 am

Try physical side hustles before you dial in your online hustles. I wish I was joking but it's better to practice business in the physical sense before going balls deep online.

DeepWeb - July 6, 2022, 2:04 pm

(Jul 6, 2022 07:01 AM)SoulHarvester Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Try physical side hustles before you dial in your online hustles. I wish I was joking but it's better to practice business in the physical sense before going balls deep online.

exactly, online is much harder op try to buy something and resell again with better marketing :)

vegetajgd - July 6, 2022, 9:53 pm

(Jul 6, 2022 02:04 PM)DeepWeb Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) exactly, online is much harder

op try to buy something and resell again with better marketing :)

Agree on here, And when you start earning online with whatever you do it gives much more confidence trying online and then moving ahead with whatever you plan is.