Thread: HF warnings

A few questions about the warning system.

Why can you not view notifications when you're given a "warning"?
Why are you not allowed to post for up to a month for a mere warning?
Don't you think this is too long for a warning?

Most of what people say is about themselves.

It's better than suffering in hell for all eternity.

I'm not complaining, I'm just curious as to why? Ban me for eternity on this site, it's no skin off my nose.

Why would you retain unrestricted privileges for violating site policy?
I can understand them for being banned, but not as a warning for a month.

Is this a request? Because I vote yes.

For what reason do you want to see me eternally banned?

I wouldn't be surprised if some egocentric mod took you up on it for popularity points.

However, you're still a bag of dicks.
More of a safe space / echo chamber, beta club.*

Being a bag of dicks was on your mind not mine, this is still your insecurity for all to see.

I think you should read the announcements section. There was a complete thread for the this particular question and also as to why warning has much more significance than it had before.
