

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Need some help with httpclienthandler / httpclient

Oxycodone - July 20, 2022, 12:19 am

First off I haven't coded in vb.net since like 2012 if im right. Im not use to the new framework and how things have changed. Im currently compiling in 6.0

Is it recommended for me to switch to 4.0?

Im trying to basically login, set a cookie, and follow the redirect and check if a login is valid.

I'm on my mobile phone right now and can't really post the code. But I've tried web request, httpwebrequest and now using httpclient or the httpclienthandler

Every time I run into a problem new things online tell me "oh use this it's easier" and it ends up causing more drawbacks. And I just would like someone to point me in the direction of a GitHub with a. Good example for Visual Basic. I've been manually converting C-Sharp but I feel like I just need a good example in vb since I may be doing something wrong.