Thread: Monitor display hacked + maybe edited chip \(hidden display mirror\)\)

Hello guys and girls, a friend of me found out that he is getting pwned for a while. So it was time for a new os and ip etc, But it seemed that there was something more going on, since he found out someone messed with his new display before it arrived when ordered online(properly seen on his pc by the attackers) . We think they add their remote code in the monitor display and mirrors his display within wifi range. There was a cracking noise coming out of the display. When he views certain things related to this article he actually heard neighbors reacting and they talk about it lol. There is no proof ir whatsoever but he knows now. Exept what the exact software / code on chip is. What could this be? Some gpio serial stuff? Or maybe over the Wireless chip and they hide it well? Combined with the main MB? Let us know What u think. Regards Lem0n123
