Thread: Hypothetical Blackhats: What is that line you will not cross?

?lixir - September 2, 2022, 7:42 am

For all those who have dreamt about being blackhat hackers and fantasized about manipulating systems for personal gain, what is that line you would not cross, and what is your reasoning for drawing that line?

this thread content was generated by AI cuz OP failed school, cant read, hello, dox, Schizophrenia is a serious mental disorder in which people interpret reality abnormally. Schizophrenia may result in some combination of hallucinations, delusions, and extremely disordered thinking and behavior that impairs daily functioning, and can be disabling. People with schizophrenia require lifelong treatment.

What on earth is this off-topic nonsense? That cut deep man. Just because I use Grammarly to correct my grammar does not reflect my lack of higher education. Community college just wasn't for me man.

I wouldn't mess with children. People who mess with children are weirdos. Adults on the other hand...

Lilith - September 2, 2022, 8:54 am

Small businesses should be entirely off limits. Medical services should be entirely off limits.

I don't know about small businesses. Some owners can be cunt bags and think its totally okay.

DashPHP - September 2, 2022, 9:21 am

If i could do anything, I'd just make every single bank account send me 1 penny... Though someone did do this and eventually got caught. XD

Aeroek - September 2, 2022, 9:25 am

Children, disabled people, medical services

trojohn - September 2, 2022, 9:51 am

Hypothetically, I would not do the things that I hypothetically had already done but regretted.

For example: Causing the divorce of a lovely couple by uploading illegal photographs onto a mans computer. When I hypothetically may have discovered the his children would never speak to him again, it hypothetically became a line I wouldn't cross ever again. Especially since in this hypothetical situation, I failed to monetize these actions.

I suppose "entirely off limits" wasn't the best outlook on that one. By default would be better phrasing.

I would think if you take any more than 5k. They will detect it.

Yep I totally agree with you. Had they kept their greed in control, they'd be living lavish in total disguise.

I do not agree with you at all

In stead of fractions of a penny they ended up grabbing 300k. They fucked up the decimal point. The movie uses the same concept. I don't know if you watched it but if you haven't you should. It's a very funny movie and depicts the working life of a software engineer.

Haven't seen the movie, but it does sound interesting!

I am a religious man/white hat hacker. But while reading tech books I have some Blackhat fantasies that I try to fight off. My religion prohibits all stealing, even from criminals. God might be cool with breaking into stuff and not stealing intellectual property though.

I am/was blackhat and the line I stick with are

1. Government agencies are off limits but their subsidiaries are fair game.
2. Never blackmail.
3. Delete all information pertaining to those underage.

4. Scam only those who make their money scamming.
5. Never hack for personal reasons. Your personal reasons might align with the hack but don't attack purely based on your dislike of something.
6. Revenge for yourself or a group (see above) is never OK.
7. Never delete or remove data that can't be recovered.
8. Do not disrupt service of legitimate businesses.
9. Trolling is to be kept to the minimum.
10. Proof of past work is retarded. Do the job at hand for its own merits. You do not need to prove anything to anyone.

1. Agreed.
 2. Agreed
 3. Agreed, but damn. How did you get yourself in that situation...?
 4. Sure. I like a Robin Hood.
 5. That is not fun.
 6. Fun Police.
 7. Agreed.
 8. Agreed.
 9. Disagree.

10. Disagree. It depends on who you are and your goals. Just shouting that you hacked the Gibson in the wind is dumb, but talking about your accomplishments with your peers is acceptable.

Whether what color or type of hacker you are, without ethics you'll end surely as a bad one. And dont let greed takes you away. Most failures comes from it. Stay safe.

SIM-3970461 - September 3, 2022, 6:22 am

Anything to do with a child. Hacking is cool but don't mess with someones kids. That's a nogo. I've met tons of people who don't care but it's just disgusting.
