Thread: How do you feel on getting -ve rating for no reason

How do you feel when you get -ve rating from someone, whom you don't even know?

Personally I feel bad because I have never interacted with this person in my short journey of HF. Use your power to neg someone who really did some thing bad to you or community. I am only trying to build a good profile here, is there any point of giving -3 to me?

I slap mfs -10 all the time, regardless of interacting with them or not.

I dunno, have all positives. I did have someone neg me for no reason but it was just trolling.

I just negged you because you made this thread. It is a free world, you cannot control what other people will do, regardless of having an interaction with them or not. People can do as they please, you can be angry about it. However, it is a reality people must face, instead of just complaining about people utilizing their free speech.

They all negged you because you said you preferred to drink Coke from a can rather than a bottle.

Meh, you shouldn't worry about popularity rating. It's basically a worthless point on the site.

They used to matter a long time ago when there were no b-ratings so checking if someone is legit meant going through their popularity (Reputation was how it was called before) points.

Nowadays, if you want to use the HF marketplace, b-ratings are what matters.

I guess I'm not one to judge, but I stopped giving fuck about negative pops once I reached more than 1000 haha
