I have heard mixed answers so going to ask HF this question. When you drink your coke or pepsi or whatever flavor you enjoy, do you think it tastes better from a can or bottle?

Deany - September 4, 2022, 5:37 pm

can vs bottle never noticed a difference
i do prefer coke over pepsi though

Glass bottle > Fountain > Can > Plastic Bottle

I am an expert.

I believe Coca-Cola from a glass bottle is superior in taste, for a couple of reasons: it doesn't lose carbonation as fast, and it's less chemically reactive than metals and plastics. Or I'm wrong and it's placebo, I still prefer glass bottles.

The coke in a can should never actually come into contact with any of the metal besides the split second it exits the can and touches the lip. There is film inside the can preventing and direct connection.

I like both. but my preference is Coke. though, I never really like them either as long as I have beers.

The film may still have chemicals which could affect the taste subtly.

Plastic Bottle > Can, you were so close to being a true expert

Yeah, there's a huge debate between Plastic Bottles Vs Cans specifically. I use to think cans were better but now I'm not really sure.

To be honest I don't think the taste is effected as much as glass bottle/fountain although I just don't like drinking out of cans, especially the coke size cans.

Most definitely a bottle. I can't re-seal a can.

570RM - September 4, 2022, 9:39 pm

I don't feel any difference, but I prefer Coke in Can over Bottle.

diablospartan - September 5, 2022, 1:14 am

Cunt - September 5, 2022, 4:02 am

Definitly a can. Tastes way better.

Beherit - September 5, 2022, 4:14 am

Anything in a glass bottle is great. That mexican bottled Coca Cola is where its at.

Yin Yang - September 5, 2022, 4:20 am

I don't have a preference but I usually get a 2 L of diet coke

From a bottle. Its looks strange drinking coke from a can, although at some fast food, they will serve into a package.

?nxy - September 5, 2022, 3:37 pm

Coke > Pepsi

ALSO

Glass bottles >>>>>

Pepsi over Coke any day of the week. Pepsi slaps out of the can. If you pour that shit with ice in the morning, it's a hangover cure.

For bottles it would have to be out of a glass bottle, but even then Pepsi is best out of the can.

Predator88 - September 5, 2022, 6:54 pm

100% Cherry Pepsi

Can is OK

Plastic Bottle is better maybe just because it has a lid, idk

Glass Bottle is the bestest

Agreed it's made with real sugar cane sugar, none of that sugar corn fructose bullshit.
