Hi, I haven't really done anything on this forum in a long time, but you can see that I've been here for a long time (11 years). I'm interested in trying to get reacquainted with the community around here and would be interested in joining your group.

I offer graphic design services in addition to social media management. I can provide claims for my abilities of both of these skills if need be either through another reply here or DMs. Hit me up if you're interested, looking forward to your response.
