Thread: Opened a dispute but seller refuses to answer on the dispute

Fishscale - September 18, 2022, 3:46 pm

Hello everyone,

Im new on this forum and i recently bought a private method which didnt turn out to be private and he lied alot in his thread about the method.

I opened a dispute and he wrote back to me on discord saying he wont reply to the dispute because im immature. He also closed his thread from preventing me posting on the thread.

What can i do to involve someone in charge in support matters?

Sorry if i posted in wrong sub.

You don't seem to have any contracts with the user, in the case you did, you could of disputed it. But since you do not have a contract there is nothing you can do. Always use a contract with anyone from this website.

Update: sorry about that I was on mobile. it appears you did use a contract, so dispute it., and add all the info to the deal dispute thread. Sorry was on mobile.

You can add all the information to the deal dispute thread which will warn members not to deal with said user. Sorry didn't see you had a contract I was on mobile.

I have already done that with plenty of info, but wont the forum take any action if he doesnt refund me. Because he basically lied and should recieve ban from selling anything on the forum if he doesnt refund.

He could potentially get banned depending on staff, but he is marked as a scammer now with your deal dispute report. Staff often do not get involved in deal disputes.
