Thread: How stupid is the idea of using my main paypal to ewhore ?

jinx - September 27, 2022, 3:53 am well the title say it, i am thinking of using my paypal and adding a business with a girly name and email, because i tried creating paypals with fake info but either they request ID or im unable to send money until i link a credit card

Honestly just setup a "dummy shop", and have people buy items as gifts from your store. No need to hide your identity, and your ewhore won't complain about never getting her gift since you own it. Plus you'll be free to use your real information for the payment processor. Just remember to pay your taxes so the tax authority doesn't come knocking. Hell you can even use stripe at this point. Or your real paypal.

already missing out on payments just by only accepting giftcards, making them shop will reduce the buyers even more

There's a lot of people who doing ewhoring on autopilot , not talking with anyone. Just a website with "buy" buttons. Yes , it will reduce some buyers , but it's all about traffic , better focus on it than on talking with hundreds of people trying to find a buyer . Good luck !?

Go back and read the post again. The idea is solid but you have to be creative. For example, let's say that I didn't sell nudes or anything like that. I sold SEO services like keyword research. And I always had them include the words "Keyword research and a specific keyword" in the message with each sale. So if they tried to charge back, I could always provide a list of keywords that they were provided.

Of course, this is all "hypothetical".

Then maybe you should pick a different method of money making if you're not cut out for ewhoring.

You're asking for advice, advice was given.
