

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: What is okay and what is not okay to include in a community alert?

Blockonome - September 30, 2022, 7:51 am

Hi guys,

I have been following this guy on HF who currently has open disputes, they are kind of old, has never been resolved and basically he scammed a few of HF members, now I just realized that he is potentially trying to scam again. So what is okay to include in a community alert and what is not?

Also, if I did figure out some personal stuff, obviously I would not dox him, but where does the line between okay and too much go?

StuffSneak - September 30, 2022, 10:45 am

Keep all info related to HF. No personal information necessary.

Celph - October 1, 2022, 2:46 pm

Probably something to ask a Staff member in a PM and not make an entire thread about

Blockonome - October 1, 2022, 3:00 pm

(Oct 1, 2022 02:46 PM)Celph Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Probably something to ask a mod in a PM and not make an entire thread about

I am quite sure that staff (because there is literally nothing called a mod on here) will not help with this. It is literally only users on the forum that makes community alerts. Except for the top scammers that Omni takes care of.

Celph - October 1, 2022, 3:04 pm

(Oct 1, 2022 03:00 PM)????? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I am quite sure that staff (because there is literally nothing called a mod on here) will not help with this. It is literally only users on the forum that makes community alerts. Except for the top scammers that Omni takes care of.

always the noobs that take terms so seriously. staff, mod, who gives a fuck. either way, fine then keep posting trash topics, idc

Blockonome - October 1, 2022, 4:31 pm

(Oct 1, 2022 03:04 PM)Celph Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) always the noobs that take terms so seriously. staff, mod, who gives a fuck. either way, fine then keep posting trash topics, idc

Ohhhh yeah, because respecting the rules and calling people by their appropriate title is just soooooo horrific, right? Always low quality people posting low quality posts on HF.

Celph - October 1, 2022, 5:23 pm

(Oct 1, 2022 04:31 PM)????? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Ohhhh yeah, because respecting the rules and calling people by their appropriate title is just soooooo horrific, right? Always low quality people posting low quality posts on HF.

ftfy. im not sure why you cant message them and ask them a question, because they always seem to have an answer for me. Didn't say they will do anything about the person, but they can tell you what you should and shouldn't put in a thread.