Thread: Writ3rs Podcast // Recruitment

Hydra - October 1, 2022, 9:13 pm

Writ3rs is recruiting to build a team for our Writ3rs Podcast. Recruitment will be in two stages: first the application letting us know you're interested, the second stage will be a voice recording submission reading text provided by us. We're looking for dedicated members who are active on the forums. If you're interested, please fill out the application below and we'll contact you as soon as possible.

Requirements
Quality microphone
Active on HackForums
Clear voice, good English pronunciation

What's Involved
Podcast will initially be on a monthly basis, eventually biweekly
Podcast topics will include HackForums events and news as well as events and news unrelated to HackForums
Guests will be on some podcasts, will need to prepare ahead of time with questions related to the guest that are open-ended

It would likely have already existed had Writ3rs not gotten disbanded less than a week after this was posted. Still, I would love to see this become a reality. I too am hoping this still becomes a reality one day. I quite liked the idea of a podcast where a few people would sit down and verbally talk about events around or related to HF among other big things going on in the world that would inevitably get posted about here anyway. Not only that, but I really liked the idea of having guests on there. Doing interviews with members for instance would be really cool. Obviously not just any random person, but maybe someone that is currently or was previously in a known position whether staff, group leader, or something along those lines. Or maybe have there be an HF related topic for an interview and of course choose a person that would best fit for that topic.

If this kicks back off and becomes a thing, I'd definitely be interested in getting involved!

Agreed and I want to avoid that at all costs otherwise we're all wasting our time. It's being built with "open-source" in mind. Anyone can pick it up and continue it (with permission, of course). More details when we are ready to share, no ETA.
