Just curious to see how many of you are located near me.

I'm in NC.

I would like to think majority of the users are from the East Coast. I am not though.

I think so too, but I mean we have plenty of members from other countries also.

I almost moved there once, but decided against it.

Florida seems like one of those places that's fun to visit/vacation in but not fun to live in. xD

Me, my apartment and my dads place all survived, some damage at work but nothing major. Could have been worse.

Fort Myers and Naples got wiped out. Daytona got battered, and there were parts of Orlando completely under water, places that have never been hit in such away were affected to the point where all you see is rooftops.
