Thread: What is your monthly total expenses?

murt - October 8, 2022, 4:25 am

I am really interested in learning about this? Especially those located in the U.S, who are students.
But taking answers from all

Kindly include housing, food, transportation

Note: Base expenses so exclude any entertainment, one-time purchases and stuff (e.g clubs, tech purchases)

DeepWeb - October 8, 2022, 4:31 am

my monthly expense is around 3k, including rent, car fuel, food and entertainments

Bastille - October 8, 2022, 4:33 am

Around 2K, living in France, but I spent a little bit more recently, bought an Apple Watch

Charlie Sheen - October 8, 2022, 4:59 am

Probably close to $4000. Cost of food going up so much is killing me.

Endorphins - October 8, 2022, 5:08 am

I'm not residing in the US but my allowance for univ is more than $500.

It includes food, house utilities like water and electricity, and subscriptions like Spotify, Youtube Premium, etc.

I'm lucky since my parents already bought an apartment for me. I'm always grateful to them.

SourceCode101 - October 8, 2022, 5:40 am

Im in Greece me wife and kid , 3-5k per month

SIM-587985 - October 8, 2022, 6:06 am $3kish monthly.

I sell on Amazon, I used to make money playing pool during my down time...

But I haven't picked up a cue since I got a DUI.

I N C R E D I B L E - October 8, 2022, 6:14 am

$2k including food, a bit of outing, house utilities like water and electricity, and subscriptions like Netflix, AmazonPrime, and Youtube Premium.

I spend approx. $400 on gas and $600 on monthly groceries. Rent and EMI sort of stuff gets my $500 and then the rest $500-$700 in random stuff which is nothing unusual in a month like buying something for my home, wife, and kid.

Yin Yang - October 8, 2022, 6:20 am

Around 3k sounds about right

bevc - October 8, 2022, 6:24 am

Probably about $2k. I don't buy a lot of stuff, but ya know, you've got to have a roof over your head, food on the table etc.

Yeah. that's about it. I guess the majority of peoples falls between $2k-$3k.

Predator88 - October 8, 2022, 6:36 am

2-3k

When my mental health meds stop working I get manic and impulsive and always get myself into debt.

So probably a lot more than that, lol.

Nate - October 9, 2022, 1:04 am

Prob just like 10% of my paycheck , don't have much overhead

Angela White - October 9, 2022, 1:06 am

I live pretty minimally but have a pretty good-sized savings. I make anywhere from $2k to $8k a month (full-time freelancing is wild), and spend approximately $2.5k - $4k a month.

I just build websites, software and mobile apps. I used to reach out a lot to companies but now most of my business is through word of mouth. I build a website for $500 - $2,500 and charge anywhere from $10 to $80 a month to host their application.

About 6.5k a month roughly with all my services

Yanix - October 9, 2022, 4:24 am

Now that the 2 kids are back to schooling, our expenses probably close to 2k.

dwalael - October 9, 2022, 5:04 am

I'd say under 2000$ which im happy with not including business costs. sometimes like 10-20k though if im going on holiday to somewhere expensive..

kookur - October 9, 2022, 5:24 am

No more than $700/Month. We have a nuclear family I live with my father and my brother lives with my mother. We live 60 Km apart from each other as I have a job in another city. We bought ourselves a home in 2019 and paid the full mortgage in last 3 years. I have to pay rent where I live though.

We don't live a lavish lifestyle and focus more on savings and investment.

I have one software that's SaaS that I charge $80 a month for and also make websites for the clients that purchase it (it's basically a super-niche CRM for specific companies), and then the rest is genuinely just word of mouth. I do the website for a relatively-popular local band that always goes out and plays at bars and meets other bands, photographers, etc. They strike up a conversation and they end up talking about online presence and I get referred. I keep a good working / friend relationship with most of my good clients as well, and they always refer me to people. The band guy in particular has brought me in over 20 clients in the last year. He's genuinely a fantastic guy.

The more referrals I get, the bigger business gets and the more connections I make and the more industries I'm able to enter.

Gary - October 9, 2022, 1:31 pm

Around $1600 or so for everything car insurance

rent
phone bill
my gf pays for groceries and internet
utilities are covered

Mac Miller - October 9, 2022, 5:15 pm

700$ Cad? maybe? I'm not entirely sure but that's a good ballpark

?OMEGA? - October 9, 2022, 5:32 pm

Rent. Heat, Water, & Car. roughly $2500.

TheRyan - October 9, 2022, 5:36 pm

Monthly is $2200 rent
$460 car payment
$300 car insurance (2 vehicles)
$400 bills total (Phone, Hydro, Water, Internet)

Gas + Food as needed, don't really concern myself with budgeting these.
