Thread: Sour candy?

Livewire - October 11, 2022, 12:04 pm

I'm not a big fan of candy in general.

I will absolutely destroy a family-size pack of sour patch kids though.

I've eaten a whole bag in one day and it definitely hurt my tongue.

I'm not a big fan of sour candy either, but I can destroy cherry sours. They are just lightly sour and are amazing.

I love it when candy is like super sour. Idk why.

On the flip side, I'm not a big fan of sweet shit.

If it's the family pack I'm down to share, but if it's any other size - nahh bro.

I can't stand ultra sweet things though. Those chocolates with concentrated sugar and cherries inside are too much.

I love skittles, and warheads. We have something called sour keys in Canada which are just gummies shaped like a normal house key lol. Costco has the best ones.

Warheads are yumm.

I'm not picky though, anything sour is usually straight.

Pick up some citric acid and add it to some candy. It makes everything super sour.

What stuff do you put it on?

I'm not gonna lie I'd be sneaking it into friends food/drinks if i had a surplus of it.

I bought 2000 live ladybugs once off amazon and released them into a co-workers car.

My boss made me clean them out, lmao.

I bought the worlds largest gummy worm and was cutting off pieces and making my own sour gummy worms. I would also bet co-workers some money that they couldn't eat a big spoonful of it, and I never had to pay out. It was super fun making my own sour candy / food.

I'm not crazy about sour candy, but I use it as a trick when I'm driving a long distance to get myself to stay awake. Energy drinks only take me so far, once I start feeling like I'm going to doze off I break into some sour candy, the sourness wakes me right up.
