Jerry is always crying about something. I'd say let him be upset next time. Besides, Sudsy had it coming. We don't like Skribble cheaters around here.

Think he was a multi, he knew about people that were banned a while ago and supposedly joined like 10 days ago.

I always try to be alert especially because of those serial scammers that keep coming back. It's a shame that people are like that.

For real? I've almost never encountered anything toxic here, other than a few exceptions.

This was back in the day of repfucks and all that. I remember I upset a member once and he DOXXED me and messaged me all my information. I barely posted back then, just stayed quiet and bought from the marketplace.

Jeez, that sucks. I'm glad that period is over. But still a lot of people say HF was better before due to more activity? :(

A lot of changes over the years. A lot of them were necessary to avoid HF being shut down. Back in the day we were always on the news lol. A lot more competition out there now, but they will eventually be seized and shutdown.

I had my suspicions too, however there are some people that forget their old accounts so they return with a new account, but 99% of the time those users will make a post explaining that they are old fags that lost their old accounts, so with the case of Discreet I do believe he was a multi, possibly evading ban and most likely building up the account so he can seem "trusted" enough to pull some scams.
